

Chicago Riot at Rock Fete

CHICAGO (UPI) — A free rock concert "to bridge the generation gap" deteriorated into gunfire, fights with police and burning autos Monday when the featured rock-music group didn't appear. Bands of youths roamed the Loop, breaking windows and looting. At least three persons were shot—it was not clear by whom—and 148 arrested and more than 50 injured, many of them policemen.

The rock concert, sponsored by the Chicago Park District, was to have begun in Grant Park at 4 p.m. Monday—the beginning of the afternoon rush hour. While others were making their way home to family, dinner and television, young people, it was thought, would be grooving to the amplified rock of Sly and the Family Stone.

And more than 50,000 turned out.

Early today, a spokesman for Sly and the Family Stone said the group had been told by city officials that it was to go on at 6:30 p.m., not 4 p.m.

"Originally, it was just a free concert by Sly and the Family Stone only—period," Neal Ames said from Los Angeles. "Then the city insisted that two additional bands be booked and it seems that word didn't get out that they would play first."

Ames said the group had not showed up at the previous two concerts because of "medical reasons" that since had cleared up.

Four o'clock came and Sly and the Family Stone were still out of sight. Other rock groups played, marijuana cigarettes were lighted and some girls shed their blouses and bras. A man danced in his underwear. The crowd, demanding Sly — one of the groups that played at the Woodstock Festival — pressed forward toward the bandshell. Police set up a line in front of the bandshell then began to move the crowd back.

Rocks and bottles began landing among policemen in front of the bandshell. "They're murdering us here with bricks and bottles," a policeman told central communications shortly after 5 p.m.

Somebody ran an American flag up an empty flag pole—upside down—and it waved that way during the violence.

Police, at first strongly on the defensive, responded with a volley of gunfire into the air by about 50 officers. That set the crowd back, and so did reinforcements and some tear gas. Some policemen clubbed those they had arrested after they stopped fighting.

Who shot those wounded by gunfire was not immediately certain. Two teen-agers were admitted to Mercy Hospital in serious condition with bullet wounds and Henrotin Hospital received one patient with a bullet wound. Police reportedly said at least two of those shot were wounded by weapons of a caliber smaller than police pistols.

But it was not easy to disperse the big crowd. Two blocks from the bandshell, two police cars burned—one overturned by a crowd of muscular, long-haired youths. A black youth smashed a police car windshield with a baseball bat. Another group of youths tipped over another police car and trotted off.

Chicago Melee

The blazing shell of an overturned police car (top) dominates the scene at downtown Chicago's Grant Park early Monday night after a crowd of rock music fans rioted when the scheduled performers failed to appear.

The protest began with shouts of dismay, followed by rock and bottle throwing and ended with this unidentified teenager (left) seriously wounded with a bullet wound in the back. Two other youths were also wounded, although police were unable to determine who fired the shots.

The huge crowd spilled into the streets, battling with police along the way in what was described as "guerrilla warfare" tactics, the police car pictured above was reportedly ignited by a group of muscular, long-haired youths and the windows of another nearby squad car were smashed.

Traffic along the Lake Michigan shore was tied up for about five miles while the battle raged. By midnight, the area was peaceful as rain showers scattered the crowd. The toll: 148 arrested and more than 50 injured, many of them policemen. (UPI TELEPHOTOS)

Corrective Steps Ordered On Broadway Project

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency says its $840,000 construction project on the new Broadway isn't going according to plan and has ordered the contractor to take immediate corrective measures.

The Callanan Road Improvement Company has been informed by the agency that "a great number of problems have been encountered in your performance of the contract."

The agency met on July 21 and after a full review of all the "difficulties" instructed the contractor to immediately complete all the remedial procedures called for by agency engineers.

James G. Connors, executive director of the Agency, allowed today that "there have been some problems, but we're hoping to work them out." He said that Callanan's bonding company, Federal Insurance Company of New York City, has been notified. "We want a good job and we want it done according to specifications," Connors said.

The agency has outlined 13 specific points that it wants corrected by Callanan among them that Broadway will be immediately opened to traffic and kept open in accordance with the contract.

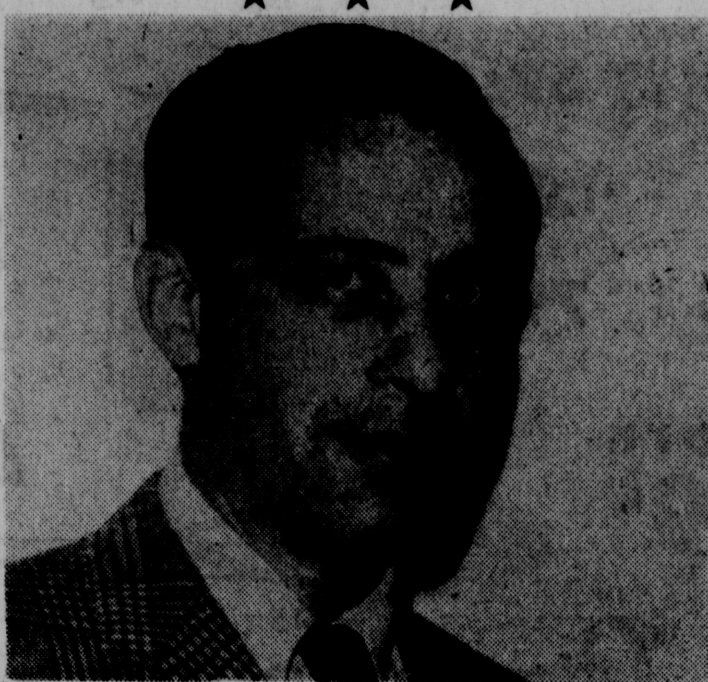

Broadway has been virtually shut down to traffic since early May due to excavation for new water and sewer lines. Last week, the construction gangs began tearing up the lower section of Broadway from The Strand to Ferry Street in front of The Daily Freeman.

It had been understood that work would not begin on the lower section until work had been completed on the upper part.

Some of the agency's corrective requirements could result

'Fantastic' Run on Welfare

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON — Reports that the Ulster County Social Services Department will run out of money before the end of the fiscal year were denied by case supervisor Harold Larsen Monday, although he did admit that the department will exceed its 1970 budget.

"It's not unusual," said Larsen. "To transfer funds from one area to another when it becomes necessary." Since this is the case, according to Larsen, the Social Services Department will continue to operate at full tilt until the end of the fiscal year in January.

The excessive spending, according to Department officials, was not anticipated when their 1970 budget request was made. In fact, Larsen termed the recent run on the welfare office as "fantastic."

The problem, says Larsen, stems from an unexpected swelling of the welfare rolls. "We've now become respectable," he said. "The stigma of welfare and unemployment is rapidly fading."

This trend is evidenced by what Larsen termed "respectable professionals" joining the welfare rolls. Many of these cases, said Larsen, are regular workers, such as teachers, who are unable to find summer employment to supplement their income.

Larsen specifically cited the case of an area school teacher with 15 years experience who was unable to find summer employment. He joined the welfare list until the employment office was able to locate temporary work. But this case, said Larsen, is now an example of the rule rather than the exception. He cited several other examples of school teachers who sought help from the employment office.

In earlier days, said Larsen, these people never would have considered applying for welfare. He added, however, that once a few start reaping the benefits, more are bound to follow suit. It is also a fact, said the area case supervisor, that more and more people can no longer afford not to go on welfare.

The former well-to-do, however, aren't the only ones to knock on the welfare door of late. Older people, said Larsen, are currently drawing benefits from the Medicaid and food stamp programs although they never received welfare during their working years. These people, said Larsen, are no longer ashamed of accepting welfare payments.

Much of the blame for the says was not set in proper line and grade according to contract specifications.

There also have been complaints from utility companies in the area that some of their power and water lines have been disrupted. The agency says that the company must immediately begin procedures necessary to effect mutual work by others so as to prevent repetitive damage to existing utilities causing unsafe conditions and serious disruption of the job.

The agency also served notice on the contractor concerning lack of safety measures. It ordered him to immediately provide for the installation of barricades and a warning to provide for the safety of pedestrian and vehicular traffic.

The agency notes that repre-

Yallum Elected Chairman of Urban Renewal Agency

KINGSTON — Elmore Yallum, Wall Street clothier, has been elected chairman of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency by his fellow agency members.

Yallum assumed the office on July 15 following a meeting of the agency.

William Mahoney was elected vice-chairman at the same meeting. Robert Richmond was elected secretary. Celestino Caruso was elected treasurer and Eddie Parker was elected assistant treasurer and assistant secretary.

Yallum was appointed to the agency in September of 1967 by former Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan under somewhat unusual circumstances.

Garraghan had named a complete five-member board which originally included his city treasurer, Orrie R. Riehl, Henry F. Millonig, G. Scott Alexander, Mrs. Cora Miller and Peter Keresmen.

Riehl's appointment brought immediate criticism because of what some persons thought was "a conflict of interest." They were of the opinion that a city official should not serve on the agency. Three days after he was appointed, Riehl resigned.

Garraghan then appointed Yallum.

Yallum is the third urban renewal chairman in the past nine months. Alexander, who was elected chairman right after his appointment in 1967, resigned last November. He was replaced by Millonig who resigned effective June 30.

Yallum, Parker and Mahoney are Garraghan appointees.

Caruso and Richmond were appointed by Mayor Francis R. Koenig last month.

Yallum has been active in civic affairs for many years. He is a past chairman of the city planning board and has worked on several Community Chest campaign drives.

Yallum's term will expire on June 30, 1972; Caruso's next

June 30; Mahoney's in June of 1973; Parker's in June of 1974 and Richmond's in June of 1975.

Yallum, in a brief statement, expressed his gratitude for the confidence shown in him by his fellow members of the agency, and said that the agency would continue its program of seeking and obtaining qualified redevelopers for its two urban renewal projects, Broadway East and Uptown.

Schroeder on Count— A Plus Try for Hurley

By NANCY SULLIVAN

HURLEY
"Let us try to put Hurley in the plus column — not in the minus column," Town of Hurley Supervisor George Schroeder said Monday night referring to the preliminary census count for the town.

Supervisor Schroeder said that in an article appearing in The Daily Freeman on July 20, an unofficial count in population for the Town of Hurley revealed a figure of 6,043 people—92 people less than a figure taken in a special census in 1965—and still less than the estimated 7,000 count for 1970.

The population in 1965 was 6,135. The total number of parcels of land taxed in 1965 was 2,365. An increase of 239 more parcels of land taxed in the span of a five year period (from 1965 to 1969) with an average of four people per parcel should result in an average of 956 more people.

However, after the preliminary count, figures show that the population has not increased but decreased since 1965. "This may be only a preliminary count, but it is important. It must be looked into. Has your census been taken? It is most important." These statements were taken from a paper written by the town supervisor of the census situation in Hurley.

Supervisor Schroeder recommends to those people who have not filed, "please do." He also recommends that the Town Board look into the situation and that it be taken up with Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. and the State Executive Department, Office of Local Government in Albany. People should contact their elected officials in Hurley and "ask your neighbor" if he has filed his census report.

Chief Constable Phillip Sinagra explained the rules regulating mini-bikes. Mini-bikes are classified as motorcycles, and as such, when ridden on public streets and highways, can only be driven by persons with either a junior motorcycle or a regular motorcycle license and the earliest age one can acquire a junior license is 16. The vehicle must be registered and insured and must possess the same equipment required for motorcycles if they are to be ridden on public property.

In a letter from David Barnovitz, a resident of Rolling Meadows, and on behalf of other residents in that area, a request was made for one or more constables to patrol the area to control speeding. The area will be patrolled and a letter will be sent to Barnovitz telling him of the town board's decision.

Supervisor Schroeder requested that a letter be sent to the SPCA regarding their increase in rates of $4 for pick up of dogs, $2 a day for board and $4 for disposal. Supervisor Schroeder said they should have been given more of a warning because of the lack of money in the budget for this particular item. If the increase was made at the beginning of the year, more money in the budget could have been allotted for this purpose when the budget was written.

A motion was passed stating that department heads in the town begin their line-budgets in August.

Supervisor Schroeder also requested that a motion be made so that he could look over the highway bills before they are audited in order that more money might be saved and this motion was passed by the town board members.

The State Department of Transportation has issued a 25 mile per hour speed on Joy's Lane as requested by the town and the signs have been installed.

Key Item in Poughkeepsie: Public Bus Transportation

POUGHKEEPSIE

A spokesman for Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress indicated today that public bus transportation was a key item in the revitalization of Poughkeepsie and other cities in the region—and that most efforts at improving this service would require cooperation between local government and bus company operators.

Speaking before a luncheon meeting of the Poughkeepsie Kiwanis today at the Poughkeepsie Inn, Arthur E. Weintraub, an associate director of Pattern for Progress explained:

"If Poughkeepsie is to retain its status as a center for basic regional services, such as office and manufacturing jobs, retail shopping, educational and health services, it must continue to improve traffic flows through its tight street pattern, and beef up other transportation facilities.

"Otherwise," he said, "these regional services may eventually move elsewhere and with them will go Poughkeepsie's chances for gaining new population—or, probably more importantly, retaining what it has."

A good system of public bus transportation, he emphasized, is essential if Poughkeepsie's major public and private institutions are to adequately serve the city and the greater Poughkeepsie area—especially those people who depend heavily on public transit: the poor, the young and the elderly.

The city, Weintraub continued, is now in the midst of several important renewal programs that are beginning to create new centers for housing, government and business activity—and at the same time, make Poughkeepsie a more attractive place in which to live.

State and local government, moreover, are moving toward solving some of Poughkeepsie's traffic congestion problems by providing for an East-West Arterial and off-street parking lots, Weintraub declared. "Public transportation, too, is basic in all this, not only for giving an alternative to motorists for using their cars, but in providing the accessibility to jobs, shopping, entertainment, educational and health services that make city life appealing."

Working through the City Planning Board, Weintraub said, Pattern undertook a study to improve the city's bus service as its contribution to Poughkeepsie's Model Cities Program. This has since become the basis for an application to the state Department of Transportation for $250,000 in funds available under the 1967 transportation bond issue to purchase 13 new buses for the Poughkeepsie system—one of the major recommendations in the report. Added to that, Weintraub said, would be another $62,500, which would be the local share of the total purchase price.

"Because of the likelihood that ownership of the privately-operated Poughkeepsie service may be changing hands, negotiations on this matter, for the time being, are being held in abeyance," Weintraub explained. "The situation, however, does illustrate the importance of local government working closely with private enterprise to find solutions to the public transportation problem — solutions which neither side could achieve alone."

Three Injured In Dutchess

RHINEBECK
Three persons sustained minor injuries as a result of a two car crash on Route 9 near the Rhinebeck Fairgrounds at about 4 p.m. Monday afternoon, it was reported by troopers from Rhinebeck.

According to police, an auto operated by Ronald Folmsbee, 24, of 543 Columbia Street, Hudson was traveling north on Route 9 when another auto, operated by Mildred Saulpaugh, 53, of 44 West Market Street, Rhinebeck attempted a left hand turn into the fairgrounds parking lot. The two cars collided at that point, according to State Police. Mrs. Saulpaugh was issued a summons for failure to yield the right of way.

All of the injured were traveling in the Saulpaugh vehicle at the time of the accident. Mrs. Saulpaugh sustained a bruised shoulder; Helen Zeller, 42, of Rhinebeck sustained facial lacerations and Helen Holt, 35, of Red Hook sustained abrasions of the arms and knees. All three were taken to Northern Dutchess Hospital where they were treated and released.

Six Judges Named for City Parade

There will be six judges at the Kingston Recreation Department's fourth Annual Children's Day Parade to be held Wednesday, July 29. The parade is said to be one of the largest in Kingston's history with a grand total of 11 divisions and 12 bands.

The judges are: Len Cane, executive vice president of Kingston Chamber of Commerce; Peter Kearney, official of Kingston Jaycees; Josh Randall, news director, WGHQ radio; John Sipos, news director, WBAZ radio; Ward Todd, news director, WKNY radio; and Edward Palladino, assistant city editor, The Daily Freeman.

The judges area will be located in front of the Governor Clinton Hotel and the trophy categories are: Best Junior Band, Best Senior Band, Best Mobile Vehicle, Best Appearing Unit and Best Appearing Playground Unit.

The parade will step off from Kingston High School at 7 p.m. and proceed up Broadway to

Clinton Avenue. A right turn will be made onto Clinton Avenue, then a left turn on North Front Street and parade will proceed directly into Dietz Stadium.

Probation for Duo On Shower Attempt

NEW PALTZ
Two Levittown teenagers were detained by security personnel at the State University College at New Paltz and later arrested by New Paltz Village Police on a charge of loitering late Monday afternoon, according to police authorities in New Paltz.

The two, according to police, were told by strangers that they could take a shower in any of the buildings on the campus at New Paltz. The pair reportedly attempted to do so but were stopped by security police before their intentions were completed.

William McGlothlin, 17, of 2 South Lane and Frank Licato, 17, of 63 Rambler Lane were arraigned before Town of New Paltz Justice S. Parks Glenn annual Children's Day parade on a charge of loitering. Both

Local Marines Going to Parley

KINGSTON promises to be most interesting declared for the post of Commandant as has Daniel Beffa of St. Louis, a vice president of the Fallstaff Brewing Company.

Daniel Fochi, Commandant of Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League, today announced that his Detachment will be well represented at the 47th annual National Marine Corps League Convention.

The National Convention will convene in St. Louis, Mo., Monday, Aug. 3, and the business sessions will proceed through Friday, Aug. 7 at the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel.

Leading the Ulster delegation will be Gilbert E. Gray, who is also Department of New York Commandant. John S. Zak of Lake Katrine, who also holds the post of Department of New York Adjutant-Paymaster, also will attend as will Robert Delaney and John Ray Mayone. The convention this year

By ALBERT CAWEIN

SAUGERTIES The tenor of Monday night's informational meeting on the County Charter held at Saugerties Town Hall indicated that most of those in attendance were in favor of the plan, but some were concerned with the costs.

Hot, humid weather last night, vacations and other factors kept the attendance at about 30.

The session was conducted by the two Republican County Legislators from Saugerties, Charles Scala Jr., and Clifford Snyder.

Scala said the public's concern as to costs were noted with other matters discussed and will form the basis of a report to be filed with the Legislative and Rules Committee of the County Legislature.

Some observed that the County Charter form proposed might create new office worker jobs on the taxpayer. The majority seems in favor of election rather than appointment of a county executive, Scala said.

Both Scala and Snyder noted that the Charter Commission has set a target date for adoption of the charter at the November election. At least one public hearing is expected to be called before that time. However, no date has been set for such a hearing.

There was one comment from the floor about reducing the number of the County Legislators. The proposed charter mandates 33, the current number.

For those interested in reviewing the proposal in detail, copies are available at the County Legislature office in the County Office Building.

Members of Saugerties League of Women Voters were also in attendance and provided information from reference material they had compiled in their independent study of the County

Charter system of government.

Among the spokesmen were Mrs. Inez Steele, Mrs. Mary Messina, president and Mrs. Betty Ohno.

In summarizing the meeting, Scala said that there seemed to be an intense interest in the "price tag" of the proposal and this will be emphasized in the local legislators report to the Legislative and Rules Committee. He observed that some estimate as to the cost in relation to the current cost of county government should be prepared for the public.

The new county charter would provide for the election of a county executive and a county comptroller, for four-year terms and the current form of legislative government with 33 legislators elected for two-year terms.

A director of assessments would be appointed by the county executive. He would supervise town and city assessors, maintain county tax maps as authorized, provide consultation and advisory service to assist local assessors.

The county executive, in addition, would appoint all department and agency heads and would supervise, direct and control the administration of all departments and agencies. He would be the chief budgetary officer of the county and propose two-year and six-year capital programs.

A Department of General Administration would have the following divisions: Personnel administration, central purchasing, central office services and research and development.

A Department of Finance will be headed by an appointed comptroller with duties similar to that of the county treasurer.

The elected comptroller would be the chief accounting and auditing officer.

A Department of Social Services, headed by an appointed commissioner would incorporate social services, public health and mental health divisions. All appointments would be subject to confirmation by the County Legislature.

Three Hospitalized After 28 Mishap

WEST HURLEY

Three persons were hospitalized following a head-on crash late Monday afternoon at the intersection of Route 28 and Maverick Road in the Town of Hurley, according to Kingston State Police.

A nine-year-old Kingston girl sustained minor injuries in the accident.

Wallace Effner, 64, of 466 Delaware Avenue, Kingston and his wife, Gretchen, 64, are both in satisfactory condition at Kingston Hospital. Effner, driver of one of the vehicles involved in the accident, sustained cerebral concussions and lacerations of the forehead. His wife suffered cerebral concussions, facial lacerations and fractured ribs. The couple's nine-year-old daughter, Tammy, sustained abrasions to the right leg. She was not hospitalized.

The driver of the other auto,

Jeanette Farrell, 45, of 470 Main Street, Saugerties, reportedly received heavy damage to their front sections.

The Effner couple was rushed to Kingston Hospital by Putnam's Ambulance Service. Another ambulance transported Miss Farrell to Benedictine.

According to State Police, Miss Farrell was proceeding east on Route 28 and attempting a left hand turn into Maverick Road. Her auto was struck head-on by the Effner car, traveling west on Route 28, p.m. Monday.

The accident occurred at 4:50

Woman Nabbed, Weapon Charge

RHINEBECK

Rhinebeck State Police County Jail in Poughkeepsie in arrested a 22-year-old Orlando, Fla. woman and charged her with illegal possession of a dangerous weapon late Monday afternoon in a parking lot in the village of Rhinebeck.

Gracie Belton was arraigned before Town of Hyde Park Justice Harold Mongold and committed to the Dutchess

County Jail in Poughkeepsie in lieu of $1,000 bail. She is scheduled for a preliminary court appearance this evening before Justice Mangold.

The weapon, described by police as a .38 caliber revolver, was discovered during a routine search of the woman's car, according to reports.

JOSEPH V. SULLIVAN

Sullivan Renamed To Post

During the recent Department of New York, Marine Corps League Convention, Joseph V. Sullivan of Saugerties was, reelected to the post of Vice Commandant, Eastern area. This was the fourth time the Saugerties Marine received this honor from his fellow Marine Corps Leaguers.

As Vice Commandant, Eastern, Marine Sullivan will have the responsibility of administering Marine Corps League affairs in the area of New York State from Kingston to and including Glens Falls. He will supervise the activities of all Detachments within his area, and will especially concentrate upon increasing membership.

Sullivan brings to his post many years of active participation in Marine Corps League activities. He served as Department of New York Sergeant at Arms in 1966; has been Sergeant at Arms and chairman of various committees within Ulster Detachment and was chairman of the 1967 Memorial Day Parade in Kingston.

Sullivan is employed by the Department of the Army as an Administration Technician at Albany. He and his wife, Regina and son, Sean reside at 31 Russell Street in Saugerties.

In addition to his Vice Commandant duties, Sullivan will continue as a drill instructor in Company B of the Ulster County Young Marines.

Linda Tells of Meeting the Manson 'Family'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Linda Kasabian told the jury in the Sharon Tate murders Monday she joined Charles Manson's "family" after "he felt my legs and said I was okay."

Mrs. Kasabian, 21, the prosecution's only purported eyewitness, sat composed, her hands folded primly in her lap, as she related how she met Manson and his followers the month before the Tate-LaBianca slayings.

She has been promised immunity in exchange for her testimony against Manson and his three female codefendants, Leslie Van Houten, Patricia Krenwinkel and Susan Atkins.

Object to Questions

Defense attorneys objected to virtually every question asked of the blonde, claiming the questions were irrelevant and that she was an incompetent witness because she had taken LSD 300 times.

The pigtailed young woman said she met Kathryn Share, known as "Gypsy," on July 4, 1969.

She said she met Manson the following day, in a cave at the Spahn Movie Ranch, where he was rebuilding a dune buggy. "He asked me why I had come, and I said my husband had rejected me and that too, and seemed to think I was okay," she giggled.

"Did Mr. Manson do anything?" Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi asked.

"He felt my legs, my calves and seemed to think I was okay," she giggled.

Lived Together as Family

Over the heated objections of Manson's lawyer, Irving Kanarek, the prosecution asked Mrs.

Kasabian if Manson's group considered itself a family.

"We lived together as a family would 'live together,' she replied. "Like a mother and father and children. We were the time. Mostly girls," Mrs. Kasabian said.

"Was Charlie the head?" "Yes, he was."

"How many were in the family?" Bugliosi asked.

"Maybe 20 stayed there all the time. Mostly girls," Mrs. Kasabian said.

Laird on Defense Huddle—We'll Fly, Then Buy

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, following a conference with President Nixon, said Monday future defense contracts would be awarded on a step-by-step basis designed to eliminate costly overruns.

"We will fly planes before we buy," Laird said.

Laird's statements were made to a news conference shortly after a 90-minute meeting with the President attended by Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's national security affairs adviser, and other domestic counselors.

The second in the series of conferences, called by the President to take a hard look at the budget and the economy, is scheduled for 1:15 p.m. today.

Laird's remarks to the press on Pentagon contracts were sharp departure from the old system of package deals under which contractors handled all phases from the drawing board to the finished product.

Laird also said at the news session American casualties and troop levels were at the lowest level since the last half of 1966 and that the cost of fighting the war had been chopped in half from $29 billion to $14.5 billion in a year.

Ghetto Shooting Victim—No Police Warning

HOUSTON (UPI)—The only white man among the five persons wounded by police gunfire in a ghetto shootout Monday said police fired at him without warning as soon as he stepped into the street.

Roy Barte Haile Jr., 24, of Dallas, was wounded in the gunbattle with 250 policemen. Three blacks were injured and the leader of the black militant organization People's Party II, Carl B. Hampton was killed.

Hampton, 21, died in a hospital three hours after being wounded in the stomach. He was not related to Black Panther Fred Hampton, killed last year when police raided his Chicago apartment.

"There wasn't any warning," Haile said. "They didn't ask us to come out with our hands up or clear the streets. They came and they attacked. It was like a military maneuver."

Police Chief Herman Short said "the Police Department made every effort to prevent this. We made it quite plain we will not tolerate lawlessness of this type. I think it has been made amply clear to all the citizens of this city what these people intend to do."

Mayor Louie Welch was vacationing in Switzerland and issued a statement through an aide praising police restraint.

"The police fired only after four shots were fired at them, which was the kind of action in which they should react," the aide said.

The mayor hopes the public realizes that this was not simply a group of peaceful demonstrators, but a group of revolutionaries bent on destroying our form of government."

Explodes Device

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI)—France is scheduled to explode its fourth nuclear device of this year's series of tests Aug. 1 on Mururoa Atoll, technicians said Monday. France exploded a low-yield bomb above the atoll lagoon near Tahiti Monday, the French Nuclear Experiments Center said. The center said the final blast in the current series is due to be exploded Aug. 6.

Javits Bill—Loans for Key Businesses

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Businesses whose operations are considered vital to the national interest would be able to get the federal government to guarantee up to $20 million each in loans, under a bill proposed Monday by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

Javits said a shortage of business credit had reached emergency proportions and that financial leaders had convinced him that "the economy has just skirted the edges of economic disaster," in the aftermath of the bankruptcy of the Penn Central Railroad.

"For some days it was a matter of touch and go," he said.

Under Javits' bill, the Treasury secretary would be allowed to guarantee loans to businesses whose operations were considered vital to the national interest.

After one year, the secretary would recommend whether a permanent emergency loan guarantee corporation was needed. If he found it needed, it would come into existence unless vetoed by either house of Congress.

Loans would not be guaranteed by the government unless the secretary certified they could not otherwise be obtained. Failure to provide a guarantee would have the effect of shutting down a business seeking a loan.

Before making a guarantee, the secretary would have to consult with the chairman and ranking minority members of the Senate and House committees on banking and currency.

The limit on loans would be $20 million for one borrower and $5 billion in the aggregate.

The Kennedy Women

A Personal Appraisal

Pearl S. Buck

Begins MONDAY August 3rd

Exclusively In

THE DAILY FREEMAN

Pearl S. Buck, America's First Lady of Literature, focuses her unique talents on the distaff side of an American dynasty in a 12-part serialization of her new book published by the Cowles Book Company.

With the insight born of her own hardships, Pearl Buck presents a compassionate yet candid portrait of the women who were born Kennedys or married Kennedy men. She writes of Rose, beautiful, well-bred, and politically wise; of her first daughter, the lovely but retarded Rosemary, of Kathleen and Eunice, Jean and Joan; of the ebullient Ethel, the rebellious Patricia, the self-willed Jacqueline; and lastly, of young Caroline.

Although all the Kennedys have been constantly on display, the women have always stood in the shadows of their strong, brilliant, ambitious men. A deep sense of family unity has dictated that their "public faces" be unfailingly genteel, confident, and proper. But what of their private emotions? What are their needs, their weaknesses, their strengths?

This series is a woman's view of the tragic deterioration of a proud and powerful family—caused, Miss Buck believes, by the standards and failures of the society that spawned it.

A Changing Nation

The census is not all figures. To the knowledgeable, it speaks volumes. Such as the rising affluence of most Americans, the revolution in the status of blacks in American society, the great streams of internal migration, the white middle class going to the suburbs and the black middle class to the core cities.

Conrad Taeuber, associate director of the Census, said that of the estimated population growth of 25 million, three-fourths occurred in metropolitan areas and nearly all outside the central cities. Central cities gained in the aggregate only about 750,000 people, the suburbs about 14 million. This change will be felt both economically and politically, with more suburban congressmen and state legislators in the 1970s.

The farming areas showed the most dramatic losses—a drop of one-third between 1960 and 1968, from 15.6 million to 10.5 million, with a third of the counties losing population. And while more than 16 million got out of poverty as defined by the government, more than 20 million are still poverty stricken. This is less than one-tenth of the nation as compared to one-third two decades ago.

The final figure for April 1, 1970, will not be known until shortly before the legal deadline December 1. It will probably be between 205 million and 210 million. But even more important will be the meaning it conveys about American life today of which, only a few indications are briefly given above.

Washington Relief Load

As a showplace of the nation, Washington presents a sad picture of relief. In one year, its welfare bill has increased 71 per cent, from $2.1 million payments in May, 1969, to $3.6 million in May, 1970. Recipients increased by 65 per cent in the same one-year span, from 41,572 to 56,575.

As in most cities, the biggest increases were in the capitol city's largest and costliest relief program, aid to families and dependent children. Nearly one in nine Washington children is living on relief. The relief load has more than tripled in ten years. The city expects to pay $45 million to relief recipients in the current year.

Washington's welfare increases parallel national growth in relief case loads and costs. The local, state and federal governments spent $6.3 billion to aid 11.1 million welfare clients in fiscal 1969, compared to the $3.7 billion they spent to aid 6.87 million recipients a decade earlier.

The increases are mainly due to liberalized policies which make it easier to qualify for and get relief, as well as to new effects to locate the needy and to steer them to the welfare offices. Also, higher living costs force persons—especially the elderly—to seek welfare when inflation catches up with their fixed incomes.

President Nixon's proposal for family income, encouraging able members of the family to train for and take jobs so that they may get off the relief rolls, is an attractive alternative to this nationwide growing rise in relief and welfare rolls. Something has to be done, or the backs of the few highly taxed earners will break under the load of the many non-earners.

No Wage-Price Freeze

The nation's patience is being rewarded, said Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy, as he asserted the economy is emerging from prolonged overheating to a new period of expansion without so much inflation.

Secretary of Labor James F. Hodgson pointed to increased productivity and saw no major jumps in unemployment, but said that the cooling of inflation makes the current jobless rate of five per cent worth the discomfort.

The Democrats, mounting a growing attack on Nixon administration economic policies, were not willing to concede that inflation is ending. The House Banking Committee, acting on party lines, voted to give the President authority to freeze wages and prices, an authority he has already said he does not want and will not use.

The frustrated citizen, looking for results, is inclined to want to skip these biennial election years. The Congress leadership is working hard for political advantage, especially in the House, where all seats are at stake every two years; and the administration has to use much of its time countering the attacks.

Fortunately, the House voted itself a 25-day recess starting August 14. Members will be well launched on their election campaigns. They should not be too troublesome in the remaining six weeks before election.

As of June 26, Secretary George Romney of Housing and Urban Development said 200,000 federally assisted low-income units had been started, nearly half the goal of 425,000 for the year. Romney fully expects to reach an annual goal of 600,000 by next year. He hasn't lost his optimism by trading jobs from Michigan governor to federal cabinet member.

"But It's Just Watermelon!"

Henry J. Taylor Says Fear Goodell May Lose Seat

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R.S.C., warning the Nixon Administration against political backlashes in its racial policies, touched a raw nerve among White House insiders. Republican National Committee Chairman Rogers C. Morton, in turn, privately feels that "pork chop" (wages, employment, state of the economy) issues will be decisive. Mr. Morton includes the stock market situation, for no administration in history has ever been reelected in a bear market.

Meanwhile, you find political intrigue ruling the capital roost. In Washington, that's what the whole town is about. There's no other industry. Nothing is manufactured in Byzantium-on-the-Potomac except the machinery of politics. Can you name one local product?

President Johnson's drop in popularity was primarily due to two things: (1) the failure of his domestic programs to insure tranquility and (2) the failure of his foreign policy to bring peace. President Nixon faces essentially the same tests.

There have been four one-term Republican Presidents in this century on an elected basis — and the Democrats hope to make Mr. Nixon the fifth. William Howard Taft failed of re-election, as did Herbert Hoover; Warren G. Harding died in office in his first term and Calvin Coolidge was elected once.

Dwight D. Eisenhower was the only Republican since William McKinley to be elected to two terms. And even McKinley (assassinated in 1901) fell short of serving two terms. This is the 70-year record.

U.S. Looks Run-Down, Its TV, Politics Boringly Dull

By BRUCE BOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Four trips to continental Europe in a short span of years give me some basis for comparisons with life in the United States. Hard as it is to say, this country does not come off very well.

Possibly my judgments would be taken as more profound if I were writing some sort of farewell to Europe after a stay of 5 to 10 years. I really don't think it matters all that much.

What struck me first, on my most recent return, was — with important exceptions — the incredible amount of man-made ugliness in America. Residential housing, mostly in the swollen suburbs, too often has the look of a spreading plague of unimaginatively assembled brick and stone.

Our cities, not least this basically beautiful capital, are despoiled by the litter of the uncaring. No doubt everybody is sick and tired of hearing about the beer can bit. But it is a ringing point with me, since I find half a dozen or more new discards across the street from my house at least several times a week.

Note, by the way, how much is said about the beer can as "litter," and how little of the fact that it lights your way along automobile roadways. There must be one hell of a lot of drinking in cars. We do hear from the safety groups that intoxication plays a large role in accidents. But what about two-handed attention to driving? What is

Ralph Nader after, a rolling, crashproof bar and restaurant?

Television gives you another quick hang-up when you get back from abroad. Not that Europeans are not big on it. They surely are. But here we are hammered over the head with the stuff.

Of course you do not have to turn the set on — or even own one. But most Americans do both, for a lot of hours a week. What a flood!

Compelled to listen to the news, tantalized by the thought I might miss something, I found myself driven wild by television's performance in the days after my return. There came Walter Cronkite to boast that his network's Washington Affiliate offered 90 straight minutes of news in the evening. Ninety minutes, indeed.

Obviously, you get some hard nuggets of news (a big plane crash at Toronto, etc.) But you can do no less than gag on the endless repetition. Try going at it from evening through the next morning.

And much of the first-hand stuff from across America and around the globe makes only a loose, impressionistic mosaic. You may get your first look ever at a Cambodian hut or an Israeli fire base in the Sinai desert. Day after day, these fragments, information? Yes, in an intensive, cluttering kind of cascade. Depth of knowledge? Precious little, even adding in the occasional long documentaries with extensive comment.

A man who specializes in using the media, and particularly television, for political purposes told me recently that the "more information people get from the tube about candidates and the political process, the more they are turned off and decline to participate."

He says mistrust is greatly magnified and that does it. I grant him mistrust is encouraged by watching some political doings. But I think there's more involved.

Much of what goes on in politics is either boringly monotonous, or boringly controversial. How many times do you watch a filmed fist-fight in the city council chamber over where the new freeway will go?

We truly have an immensely beautiful country. But, all aside from ravaging it by gouging and polluting, we have moved unsystematically to render large parts of it commonplace. And the great communicator, the Big Eye, is proceeding with uncanny skill to "inform" us and the world as never before — while at the same time removing the juices of variety and freshness from nearly everything by deadening repetition.

Even our young rebels who, by their wild dress, pronounced their withdrawal from this deadening business, in fact contribute to it. For they have managed, with devilish ingenuity, to make difference of attire so infinite that they have made difference itself a kind of smothering conformity.

Jack Anderson Says Gun Firms Donated Prizes For Raffle to Beat Tydings

WASHINGTON — Some of America's most famous gun manufacturers apparently have violated the law in their campaign to unseat Sen. Joseph Tydings, D-Md., the champion of gun controls.

The firearms firms donated almost $3,000 in prizes to a raffle whose advertised purpose was to "Help Defeat Senator Tydings." The Corrupt Practices Act bars corporate gifts "in connection with any (federal) election." The criminal penalties range up to a $10,000 fine and two years in jail.

The anti-Tydings raffle was promoted by a gun lobby group called FAIR (Firearms and Individual Rights), which mailed out advertisements in violation of another federal law. A confidential ruling by the Post Office says the mailing "clearly violates the provisions of the postal lottery law. We are referring the matter to the Chief Postal Inspector for appropriate attention."

FAIR is based in North Hollywood, Calif., a long way from Tydings' home state of Maryland. The drawing was held at the Culver City, Calif., Fun Show, a two-day event which had the blessing of Gov. Ronald Reagan and Sen. George Murphy, both California Republicans.

The raffle tickets brought in $876, which was then hustled across the country to Maryland to the "Citizens Against Tydings" organization.

Gun Lobbyist's Confession
FAIR director Frank Barnyak was bluntly honest about the raffle. "The leaders of industry donated these raffle prizes," he said. Asked whether they knew it was for an anti-Tydings raffle, he said: "Sure. We sent them literature."

He reached some of the manufacturers through their California outlets and others at their national headquarters, he said. He mentioned Browning as one firm that "came in with both feet solid."

Browning, which gave a $22 rifle worth $60 and joined a dealer in contributing a $435 shotgun, denied any knowledge that the raffle proceeds would be used to defeat Tydings. H. G.

Williams, the company's executive vice president, said from Ogden, Utah, that he was "upset" about the incident and that he understood the raffle money would be used to fight gun laws.

Weatherby, Inc., which donated a $330 Mark V rifle, had a better understanding of the raffle's purpose. Roy Weatherby, the company's bluff president, said he thought Barnyak "may have mentioned" to him that the raffle was to defeat Tydings. Weatherby made no bones about his dislike for the Maryland Senator.

Frank Pachmayr, owner of the Pachmayr Gun Shops, gave a $50 custom pistol case and some recoil pads. He conceded after much hedging that he knew the raffle was to fight members of Congress "who are trying to put bad laws through." One of them, he acknowledged was Tydings.

At least two listed donors, Winchester and Remington, denied making any donations — despite Barnyak's insistence that he received rifles from both companies for the raffle.

A life membership in the National Rifle Association was donated, according to Barnyak, by NRA clubs and not by the National Headquarters.

It will be interesting to see whether the Justice Department will be as quick to act against corporations that made donations to oppose a Democrat as it has been to indict corporations that made contributions to help Democrats.

Cutting Off Ears
The FBI has learned from undercover sources that a black extremist group, which calls itself the True Black Family, requires recruits to bring in two white ears as the grisly price of membership.

The FBI has received a report that at least one victim, a 16-year-old white hitchhiker in Michigan, was slain by True Black Family believers. The body was found with no ears.

Footnote: There is speculation that the black extremists, because of their pro-Hanoi sympathies, are retaliating against the practice of a few GIs who have shorn the ears off Viet Cong corpses in Vietnam as ghastly souvenirs. The FBI's investigation, however, has uncovered no link between the ear collections in Vietnam and Michigan.

Nixon Settles Feud
President Nixon had to step in personally to settle a feud between the Treasury's Customs Bureau and Justice's Narcotics Bureau over which agency should chase down drug smugglers.

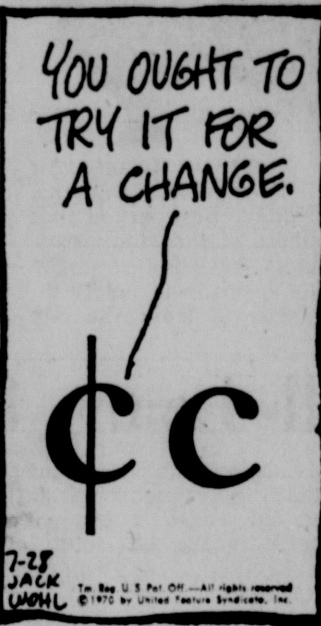

Sometimes the two agencies seemed to spend more time squabbling over narcotics than hunting for the smugglers. Meanwhile, the drug menace has grown alarmingly in the United States.

The President has fired off a directive giving the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, as it is known formally, the primary jurisdiction over narcotics.

"A difference of opinion has existed between the Justice and Treasury Departments as to the responsibility for dealing with the international traffic in narcotics," said the private directive.

BND should be designated the agency to control the narcotics area. Customs should support BND's efforts to reduce and eliminate the flow of narcotics into the United States, and its intelligence network should be used to assist in the over-all effort.

Riot Shocks New Bedford

By TOM TIEDE
NEW BEDFORD, Mass. — (NEA) — It began here on a breezy Wednesday evening in the West Side community known somewhat dramatically as the black belt.

Nobody knows what really set it off. The most repeated explanation is that a white cop made a black arrest and the hotheads took it from there.

What is known is that the early mess of gunfire and window-breaking did not have the elements of real riot. There was no heart for real riot even among the rampaging leaders. Mostly, it was an exercise in muscle-flexing through Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

Then came Saturday. Police say three white kids who swaggered into the black belt with a shotgun killed one 17-year-old and injured three others. That blew the lid off a street war in which 48 were injured, a half-dozen buildings were burned and a four-block area was seized and sealed off from the city. Most of 104,000 stunned townspeople were made sick and disgusted with fright.

And what did it all prove? Nothing. Except, as one resident says, "what damn fools we all are."

Most New Bedford citizens, black and white, are thoroughly ashamed by the senselessness of the tragic affair.

Not that New Bedford can claim any unqualified pity. The 200-year-old town, once famed for its whaling fleet, has neglected its minorities for its entire history. There has never been a Negro in the city council. The unemployment rate in the black settlement is 33 per cent. The town's most prestigious club bans Negroes.

Yet even this is no just reason for riot. As a Negro at city hall puts it: "There are more white poor here than black poor, there are more Polish jokes than Negro, and the Jews can't get into some of the clubs either. So if the blacks got the right to riot, then 'nobody with a gripe can pick up a club and join them.'"

The point is this. New Bedford is smug and often insensitive. But its black residents are not at any stragulation stage of misery. There are no ghettos here, except in the mind. There is injustice, but as black poverty leader Jennie Horne says:

"We got green grass and shade trees. This isn't Harlem, for sure."

So how did a riot happen? "The same as they happen almost everywhere else," explains one sad local banker. "Because the town did nothing to prevent it."

For years blacks have failed time and again to win progress through calm negotiations, says Negro Urban Renewal Director Howard Baptiste. "I remember when we wanted to change the name of a local school — to that of a black civil war sergeant who won the Medal of Honor. We negotiated and pleaded and made a perfectly good case — peacefully; but the white administration wouldn't go along. Then some militant blacks began to pound the tables — not asking but demanding. The whites got scared to death and, sure enough, we finally got the name changed."

What Baptiste is saying is that New Bedford has burned out the effectiveness of responsible black leaders and forced irresponsible fear merchants to the fore.

This is precisely why the riot happened. Long standing, legitimate black demands (such as better police-black relationships, rezoning for lower income housing, lighting for playgrounds) have been snubbed so long the black community turned elsewhere to get quicker satisfaction.

As it happened, they turned to a group which the police chief here calls "mostly thugs" and which the mayor categorizes as "out-of-towners." Young men like Jimmy Magnott, who was arrested during the disturbance for assaulting a cop and who tells white newsmen: "Don't you come round me, man — or you gonna limp away."

New Bedford's riot is over. One young man is dead, neighborhoods are broken, responsible black leaders are stilled. Housing isn't improved, there are no more jobs than before, wild delinquents prowling the streets.

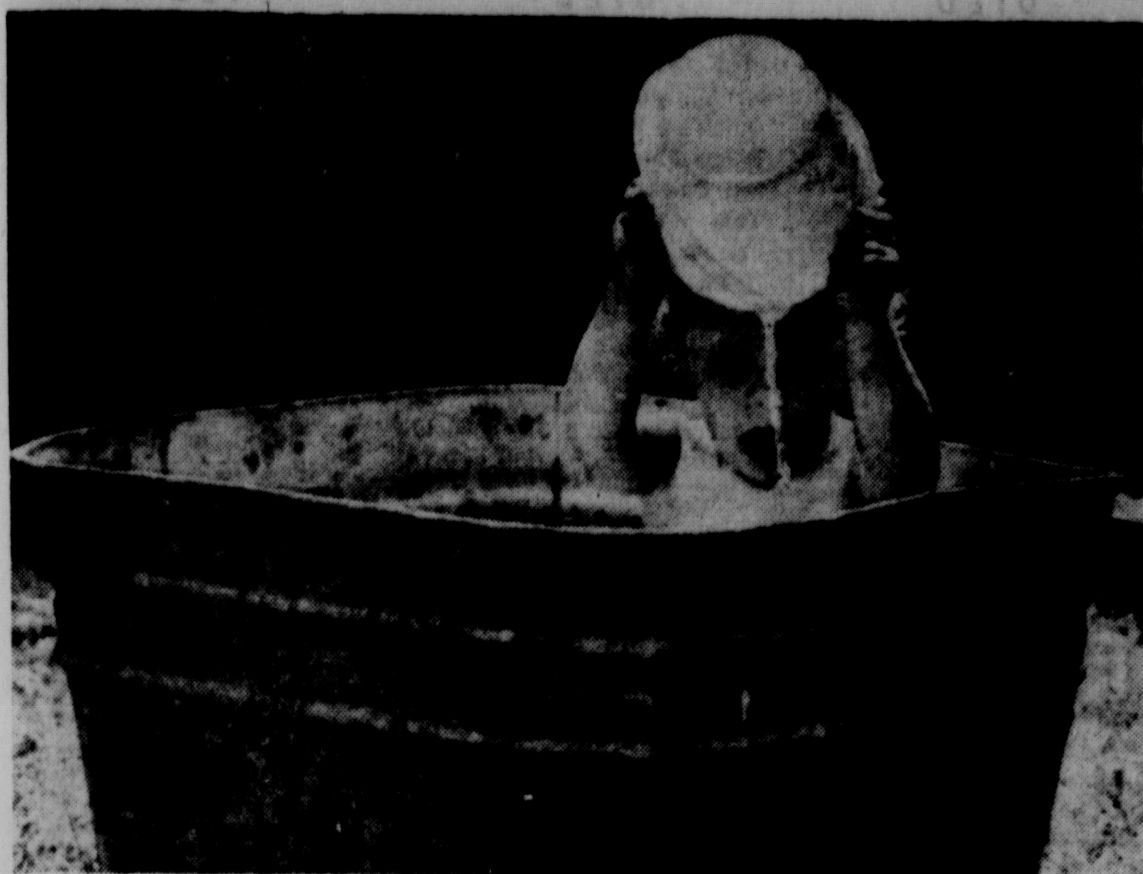

Nothing's better. Some things are worse. "What damn fools we all are."

British Stores Rationing Sugar

LONDON (UPI)—Sugar was being rationed in some British stores today despite government assurances there was no danger of the 14-day-old strike causing supplies to run out in the near future.

Union delegates will meet Wednesday to decide whether to accept a compromise pay settlement recommended by a government-appointed court of inquiry and already accepted by the port employers.

Some shops and supermarkets in the northwest of the country began rationing sugar Monday. A Ministry of Agriculture spokesman said, "it is not necessary. There is no worry that sugar supplies will run out in the near future."

A spokesman for the giant utility company said the reduction was so slight nobody noticed it.

Power was down for almost four hours between 1 and 5 p.m. as air conditioner use reached a season high.

With the temperature at 91 and the humidity at 80, Con Ed poured out 7.2 million kilowatts between 3 and 4 p.m. If the heat wave continues, Con Ed plans to cut voltage by 5 per cent and then 6 to 8 per

Navy Probes Shooting at Arctic Station

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two Navy investigators reached a small arctic ice station Monday to look into the death of the station's leader, Bennie Lightsey of Louisville, Ky.

Lightsey was shot to death July 16, but details of the shooting are still unknown because of poor radio communication with the isolated 19-man weather research station, which floats on an ice island in the Arctic Ocean.

The two investigators, whose names were not released, were the first outsiders to reach the island since the shooting. They arrived at 1:45 p.m. EDT Monday aboard an Air Force helicopter. Planes can't land on the island during the summer because the ice is too slushy.

The Defense Department said the investigators would remain on the island as long as necessary. They also will decide whether to remove from the island the only witness to the shooting.

Sources said earlier that sending investigators to the island indicated the shooting was not accidental.

Portugal Goes In Mourning For Salazar

LISBON (UPI)—Flags flew at half-staff and bars, restaurants, movies and nightclubs were shuttered today in mourning for former Portuguese Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, who died Monday without knowing he had been removed from power.

The government decreed four days of national mourning and a spokesman said the body was being moved today to the historic St. Jeronimo Monastery to lie in state for two days. Burial will be Thursday in Vimeiro Cemetery near his hometown of Santa Comba Dao, north of Lisbon.

President Americo Thomaz learned of Salazar's death while visiting the Portuguese island of Sao Tome off the coast of West Africa. Thomaz cut short his tour and was expected to reach Lisbon Wednesday night. Salazar took over the government in 1932. His death left Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco as the only surviving leader dating back to the turbulent 1930s in Western Europe.

Percy Makes Speech

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., says the United States should end the Vietnam War by asking the United Nations to arrange a 90-day cease-fire to be followed by an "international peace conference."

"Every war ends by surrender or negotiation and, since there will be no surrender in Indochina, I suggest that we initiate real negotiation now, rather than thousands of casualties later," Percy said in a Senate speech Monday.

34th Season For Mormon Pageant

PALMYRA, N.Y. (UPI)—The Mormon pageant, "America's Witness for Christ," began its 34th season Monday night on fabled Hill Cumorah—the birthplace of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Some 15,000 persons, what is believed to be the largest opening night crowd in the history of the pageant, jammed the seating area on a clear but humid night.

The pageant, held annually near this Finger Lakes resort community, graphically describes the rise and fall of an ancient civilization that Mormons believe sprang up on the American continent six centuries before the birth of Christ. The pageant, which runs nightly through Friday, is highlighted by brilliant sound and lighting systems and brings to life the Book of Mormon, key stone of the Mormon faith.

Nixon Slates News Conference Thursday Night

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon will hold a televised news conference in Los Angeles at 11 p.m. EDT Thursday so the "people in the West have an opportunity" to see the Chief Executive questioned during prime time evening hours.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the conference, to be carried live on all networks, would be along the lines of those held in the East Room of the White House in Washington. Ziegler said Nixon would go right to questions and was not expected to make an opening statement.

The news conference was expected to be held at the Century Plaza Hotel.

Another First for Kingston Cablevision

The TV Air Pollution Report

Kingston Cablevision has contacted the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation in Albany for a daily air pollution report.

The daily pollution report will appear on the local community TV channel and will be taken directly in the City of Kingston at the new air control center.

William Krajci (Kingston Cablevision) praised state and county officials and said "THE LOCAL COMMUNITY IS ENTITLED TO ALL THE INFORMATION AVAILABLE ON LOCAL AIR POLLUTION PROBLEMS".

The new statewide continuous monitoring system now monitors Buffalo, Syracuse and New York City and the daily air pollution report carried by Kingston Cablevision's community channel will be ANOTHER FIRST FOR CATV IN THE MID HUDSON VALLEY.

The continuous monitoring system operates by pumping the outside air to various instruments into the Kingston Air Control Center. The computer then automatically polls each station every 15 minutes and compiles an hourly average for the City of Kingston.

New savings for safe drivers.

Now Aetna has a low cost new policy for safe drivers only.

If you have a safe driving record, Aetna thinks you should get something out of it. From now on your safe driving record can save you cold cash.

Because of Aetna's Auto-Rite. It's been available in other states, but not in New York. Now, we're able to introduce it here in New York for the first time.

What Auto-Rite does is give safe drivers a new lower rate. A rate designed to save them money.

Talk to the nearest Aetna agent today, you'll find him listed under the Aetna symbol in the Yellow Pages. Tell him about your safe driving record. You'll start saving on a complete Auto-Rite package. It can include liability insurance, collision insurance, fire, theft and comprehensive insurance, even Medical Expense, Bail Bond and Emergency Road Service. And all that protection is accompanied by Aetna's famous fast, fair claim service.

Auto-Rite. Welcome news when the cost of everything is going up.

It adds up to having more money to spend on other things.

Faster and Better Services Prospect For Ulster County's 53,000 Drivers

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — Ulster County's 53,000 drivers who own 69,403 vehicles will be getting faster and better service from the Motor Vehicle Bureau thanks to two new computers and County Clerk Albert Spada's plans for an information desk in the lobby of the County Office Building where the bureau is located.

Almost any time of the day, any day of the year the bureau is the scene of bustling activity. In addition to processing driver's licenses and car registrations, bureau personnel have been faced with an average of 350 applications a week for learner's permits and they note that motorcycle registrations have doubled in the past year. Transactions of all kinds run from about 8,000 to 15,000 per month.

The computers, already in operation, process a driver's license renewal in about two minutes, complete with a 36-month record of the applicant's convictions, if any. It indicates if previous convictions or summonses have been answered and if not, a stop is put on the application. In the past, the processing took about five to ten minutes and did not produce such information. The computers are hooked up with the State Motor Vehicle Bureau at Albany which feeds back the information upon request.

The computers also are intended to speed up motor vehicle registrations but to date have not been successful on that score. In fact, the process is found to be taking more time than previously needed due to the complexity of the form used.

Deputy County Clerk Patrick Mataraza, who heads the bureau under Spada, explains it by pointing to the large number of car identification requirements such as motor and serial numbers, weight, color, make and registration number. "There are so many things to be checked," Spada added, "including whether the vehicle may be stolen or not."

But a new plan to alleviate the long wait while the computer seeks out the answers will go into effect Aug. 1, he said. Persons wishing to register their car will get a temporary stamped, enabling them to drive the car while the information is fed into the computer and the Albany bureau mails out the permanent registration to them. Spada notes that the temporary registration is non-negotiable and cannot be sold.

"Our main interest," he said, "is to get people in and out of the bureau as fast as possible."

Another way to expedite the process, he feels, is through the handling of applications which use of an information desk in are not properly filled out. Also the lobby. The person manning the desk would offer assistance factors about which the public to those in need of help in pre-insurance forms are only good forms and to direct persons to the proper windows.

Computerizing the department went into effect all over the state, effective last June. The department requested that employees using the computer be trained and a school set up in Dutchess County for that purpose. Ulster County employees attended for two weeks.

While the department is doing all it can to conduct an efficient organization, Mataraza points out that the public also may help. The biggest single time registration when out-of-state title is held by a bank or finance company. If the bank or finance company will not release the certificate of title, the applicant should obtain a true copy or photocopy of the title. The copy must be certified by the Motor Vehicle Administrator of the state which issued the title. Neighboring Connecticut, New Jersey, New Hampshire and Pennsylvania are all "title" states.

NEW COMPUTER — Rose Ann Matthews, of the Ulster County Motor Vehicle Bureau is one of a number of employees trained to operate the two new computers installed this year in an effort to modernize the department. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Saugerties Youth Unit Vital Force

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

SAUGERTIES

The reactivated Saugerties Youth Council with federal funds through the Office of Economic Opportunity and the aid of some public spirited citizens is quietly moulding into a vital creative force for community betterment.

The old Saugerties Youth Council consisted of several adult citizens interested in the youth of the community and for many years worked diligently without publicity and funds.

The new council is composed of the young people of the community with several adult advisors.

With the help of the advisors, the council has been able to secure by lease the old Broome Hotel and bowling alleys. Under the arrangement of the owner, George Thornton is leasing the building to the council at no charge. However, the council will be responsible for the taxes and insurance on the building on Partition Street. The contract is expected to be signed in a few days.

The adults who worked on the project include Robert Cline, Bernard Nathan, Roy Almquist, and Wilson Edmunds and John Lawrence of Saugerties Jaycees.

The council has a temporary Youth Center and office at GOP Headquarters on Partition Street. The office is manned daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and is open for consultation.

A spokesman for the group said the organization has solid objectives dealing socially, educationally and economically. The current services in job placement, remedial reading, arts and crafts, math, photography and typing.

The council also offers programs on drug abuse to point out the dangers of narcotics and outlines a program of prevention.

In all projects of this type, there is always a great need for support, both financial and adult supervision.

Anyone interested may call the Center, 246-4644.

The program of the council was sparked by a $3,000 grant through the OEO. The organization set up a budget and filed an application for funds. As soon as the money was granted the council set in motion a program to secure a building for youth activities. Members of the old YC were contacted by Chairman Vernon Joe Benjamin and gave their support to the program for the new youth group.

Items needed for the headquarters are desks, chairs, filing cabinets and typewriters. Also needed are building supplies and someone willing to donate their labors.

William Brown is the full-time director and may be reached for further information at the Center's number.

Last week the council sponsored a bus trip to Harvey Fite's Opus 40 at his bluestone quarry, at High Woods, a sculpture in stone. A total of 28 attended with Council Advisor Mrs. Katherine Nathan. The quarry will be open to the public only once this year during Labor Day Sunday.

Council members recently underwent an experience in community service.

Richard Forester, a Saugerties case worker came to the council with a problem. He told of the plight of a family that had an apartment that needed refurbishing. The work had to be done or the family would lose their home.

Four of the council's youth volunteered for the project and did the repairs including plastering and removal of litter from the backyard. They included Stuart Bragg, Tim Diweiler, Robert Snyder, Russell and George Covel.

Leaks in System

Water Problem in Ellenville

ELLENVILLE Later Friday there were reports of low pressure at higher elevations, and still later residents occupying dwellings at higher elevations called in to report that no water was coming from their taps.

The problem was first noted late last week when it was discovered that the water level in the village reservoir had dropped 12 feet in a 24-hour period. Eyres noted that the level is checked every 24 hours and that it normally drops only 6 feet within that period of time.

On Saturday morning officials from the Ulster County Board of Health were called in to confer on the problem. It was discovered that due to a "tremendous drain on the system" the outlet to the reservoir had become clogged, according to Eyres. Skindivers were sent down to correct the problem, which was partially alleviated. At about the same time, Eyres explained, it was felt that there was a leak in the Canal Street water main near Sanburg Creek, and this area of the main was sealed off. Both measures apparently solved the problem at that time, since pressure returned to normal and remained so through Sunday.

However, on Monday morning Eyres' office again received reports of pressure loss at the higher elevations. In order to avoid a repetition of the loss of water Friday and Saturday, Eyres suggested that residents at higher elevations fill containers while they could with water, and also directed that water should be used only when necessary throughout the village. Late Monday afternoon Eyres said the village "will get through the day in excellent shape."

Eyres explained that all the symptoms point to another leak somewhere in the system, and that he felt the village was not getting full capacity from its present well due to the clogged screen, which is partially a result of a high water demand from the tourist trade, the hot weather and industry.

A well driller has been called in to sink another well to augment the village supply from the existing well and Lake Maratanza. Eyres went on to explain that once the new well is in operation later this week, they will be able to shut down the existing well to clean the clogged screen.

"We have had water pressure problems in past summers, but this was the worst," concluded Eyres.

Paltz Sewage Treatment Plant Work Well Ahead of Schedule

By MATT SPIRENG

NEW PALTZ It was reported at the New Paltz village board meeting Monday night that the construction of the new secondary sewage treatment plant is proceeding well ahead of schedule and it was suggested that if all continues as at present the plant should be completed within the schedule date.

In other action, bids were opened on a proposed addition to the village garage. Five bids were received by the village, with the low bid coming from Milstrey Construction Company, Inc., of New Paltz, at $36,346. Other bids received were from C. A. Development Corporation, New Paltz, $37,889; Bill Decker Inc., Poughkeepsie, $41,886; Roy C. Knapp and Sons, Inc., Beacon, $46,700; and Anthony Costanzi Corporation, Kingston, $45,524. It was noted that the village attorney would look over the bids before a final announcement of award would be made.

New Paltz village Police Chief James Walrath presented his report and suggested that the village board look into the hiring of a village police judge and the acquiring of detention cells in the village. Walrath cited that the detention cells would save money and make for a more efficiently run police force. At present prisoners must be taken to Highland to be fingerprinted and then to jail in Kingston if they are arrested during the night hours, and then transported back to New Paltz in the morning for arraignment.

In other action, village trustee George Ackert noted that he had numerous violations of a village code which prohibits the placing of refuse containers in the front of houses for collection. Ackert suggested that the police notify violators of the code since it was felt that many residents were unaware of its existence.

New Paltz Mayor Henry DuBois informed the board that he had entered into a discussion with Tony Anzalone who is dog warden for towns of Gardiner and Lloyd, concerning his availability as dog warden for New Paltz Village. The board was informed that Anzalone preferred having the village suggest a salary, and discussion of the matter was put aside until a later date.

In the final action of the evening, Village Clerk William Freudenburgh announced that the annual treasurer's report had been completed and would be published in the near future.

Rascal the Raccoon With Friends

Rascal, the baby raccoon, appears all bright-eyed and bushy tailed under the careful care of Pat Barkley (L), 11, and his brother, Tom, 9. The boys found the abandoned baby about a month ago in Kingston. All attempts to locate the mother failed and so Rascal became a part of the William Barkley household in West Hurley. Feeding started with a bottle but the seven-week old fur bundle is now dining on dog food and cheese tidbits which he carefully washes in a water dish, true raccoon style. Other pets on the premises include a dog, a cat, parakeet and a turtle. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Many Experts Attend

Drug Conference in Dutchess

By TIM SCHUSTER

POUGHKEEPSIE Dozens of narcotics experts gathered at the Dutchess County Office Building Monday for the second in a series of coordinating efforts to find an answer to drug problems in the county.

Those present included such luminaries as Dr. Vincent Beltrami at St. Francis Hospital dermatologist who is conducting methadone experiments with 20 area addicts through a state funded program; Dr. Lawrence Sweeney, commissioner of Mental Hygiene; Polly Gage, with the governor's Narcotics Advisory Council; and representatives from ADAPT (Action For Drug Abusers Prevention Training, Teen Challenge of Rhinebeck, the Poughkeepsie Police Department and a host of town and village officials who have manifested concern.

Ralph Marks, of Poughkeepsie, a member of the Education Committee of Dutchess County Mental Health Society, was chairman. It was the second such meeting in recent months, and Marks told The Freeman that a conference is being planned in "about two months" at Vassar Hospital.

He said that those concerned "will attempt to get people from Ulster, Greene, and Columbia Counties to attend," in addition to Dutchess for a three-day seminar.

The primary aim of the effort is to provide educational material for any organization that wants it through a central clearing house, probably located at the Mental Health Center in Poughkeepsie.

"We want to put it all together," he said, "a compendium of information on Dutchess County so if someone wants a speaker, films, or literature, we can direct him right to it."

The methadone program referred to, under the auspices of Dr. Beltrami, is presently serving 20 addicts as a "trial balloon," according to Marks, and is planned to handle up to 100 people. Jerome Goodman, head of psychiatric services at St. Francis, is also involved.

It is similar to the program in New Paltz, and several in New York City. Funding has been approved from the state, but the full program has not been implemented because of "red tape and the usual politics," he said.

Marks noted that such an informational program as is being put together for the county attracts many people who would like to help, but haven't got the proper information. The group's aim is also to educate these.

The ADAPT program mentioned will be the first such application with state funding in the Arlington School District this fall. Arlington will have the preventive training course in use in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades, before most youngsters are seriously exposed to the drug scene.

The Wappingers Falls District is also reportedly seeking funds to implement ADAPT.

Those organizations with experience and trained speakers will make them available to such groups as service organizations, schools, churches, and neighborhood groups. The effort all came about when the Dutchess county Medical society tried to form a complete program in response to what it felt was a drug problem, and found that county's Narcotics Guidance Council, made up of county board members, was supposed to be coordinating similar efforts.

Marks said that the representatives' group was apparently "doing nothing," and that is why he engineered the movement described here as a "catalyst."

Secretarial Duties?

LONDON (UPI) — Two young secretaries at London's County Hall complain their latest job is outside the call of duty: checking soap and towel supplies in the men's lavatories.

When asked if his group would ultimately take and stand on narcotics regarding law enforcement, marks answered that he would "ultimately like to see laws amended or changed to better regulate drug abuse," and mentioned that many police felt they were being hampered.

He agreed with a statement put forth in Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado" to "make the punishment fit the crime."

Opposition to Certain Films

Fish Introduces Resolution

KINGSTON

Calling on the motion picture and broadcasting industries to adopt more stringent regulations for films and programs dealing with "racial, religious or ethnic groups," Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. and more than 90 other House members recently introduced a resolution decrying films and programs which "degrade and demean" such groups.

The resolution expressed the fact that Congress is opposed to "those films and programs which deface, stereotype, ridicule, demean or degrade ethnic, racial or religious groups."

City Police Have Car Fire Under Probe

KINGSTON

An auto fire currently under investigation by Kingston city police and fire department officials was doused by equipment from the central fire station early Tuesday, but not before extensive damage to the interior of the car was reported, according to fire department officials.

Chauncey Coumbs of 26 Summer Street sounded the alarm at 12:05 Tuesday morning. Engine No. 1 and Truck No. 1 from the central fire station responded to the alarm and, upon arrival at the scene, found the interior of Coumbs car engulfed by flames. Firefighters, it was reported, were forced to pry open the trunk of the auto in order to extinguish part of the fire. The blaze was finally put out with a booster line from Engine No. 1.

According to fire officials damage was reported to the complete interior of the car, in addition to all the windows, with wiring under the dashboard, the exterior paint and the roof of the vehicle.

Police and fire department authorities were unable to determine the cause of the blaze. An investigation is continuing. Captain Glynn Southard was in charge of fire fighting operations.

CONGRESSMAN FISH

This recent congressional action comes in the wake of a recent Justice Department decision to ban the words "Mafia" and "Cosa Nostra" from their official "dictionary."

The resolution, said Congressman Fish, is not meant to "censor the movie or television industries" but rather to "alert the American public on this issue."

The resolution did not cite specific examples of films or television programs which the signees considered "demeaning or degrading" to ethnic, religious or racial groups.

Congressman Fish also explained that the resolution does not attempt to impose specific standards of conduct on the television or movie industries but, he did add that, "if the industries themselves have not adopted adequate standards within one year, the appropriate committees of the House and Senate would be empowered to formulate such measures as are deemed necessary."

Pearl S. Buck focuses her unique talents on the distaff side of an American dynasty in a 12-part serialization of her new book published by the Cowles Book Company.

With the insight born of her own hardships, Pearl Buck presents a compassionate yet candid portrait of the women who were born Kennedys or married Kennedy men. She writes of Rose, beautiful, well-bred, and politically wise; of her first daughter, the lovely but retarded Rosemary; of Kathleen and Eunice, Jean and Joan; of the ebullient Ethel, the rebellious Patricia, the self-willed Jacqueline; and, lastly, of young Caroline.

Dobbin-Sweet Nuptials Told

Miss Barbara Lee Dobbin, 361 Albany Avenue, Kingston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Leonard Sworts of RD 3, Dundee, became the bride of Herbert Robert Sweet III, RD 2, Box 223, Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert

MRS. HERBERT R. SWEET III

Robert Sweet Jr. of Ocean-side, L.I., Saturday, July 25 at West Presbyterian Church in Binghamton.

The Rev. M. Robert Lambert officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Mary Wade, organist, provided traditional wedding selections. A bouquet of white flowers decorated the Communion table.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a silk organza gown, styled with an empire bodice and Bishop sleeves of peau d'ange lace. The floor length skirt featured a detachable train edged with matching lace. Her silk illusion veil was shirred to a stylized headpiece of petals edged with seed pearls and centered with aurora crystals. She carried a bouquet of daisies.

Sophie Kaidon of Binghamton was maid of honor in a pink organza gown. She carried a bouquet of pink daisies.

Betty Lawrence of Vestal was an attendant in a gown fashioned similarly to that of the honor attendant's.

Joseph Pearlman of Brooklyn was best man. Bruce Watson of West Hurley was an usher.

A reception for 100 guests was held at the church.

For her wedding trip to Lake St. Lawrence, the bride selected a navy blue dress with matching coat.

Mr. and Mrs. Sweet III will reside at RD 2, Box 223, Apartment 23, Kingston.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My children live in distant cities. I often want to order gifts of flowers for them from stores in that city. It saves a great deal of money to be able to order direct.

I have had them save their old telephone books for me so that I will have all the necessary information available for ordering. It also helps me know more about the town in general.

Grandmother

Here is a tasteful, nutritious and economical way to stretch a can of beef stew (which always has more than enough delicious gravy).

Drain a can of diced carrots and in the liquid cook one diced potato. Add carrots and potato and a little seasoned salt to one can of beef stew and "seconds" are no problem.

I have also, on occasion, added an eight-ounce can of baby lima beans which further stretches the stew and adds to the flavor.

A Stretcher

Dear Heloise:

I have a rug that is the bane of my existence because it has fringe on it. This fringe will never lay flat to the floor.

Last month I folded the rug back, tore off a big piece of waxed paper, laid it across the floor and put the rug back down on it.

I took my can of spray starch and literally starched that fringe. Then I got my little vegetable brush and brushed it all out straight.

After it dried, I removed the paper and now have a flat carpet fringe.

For those of you who want to try this, I do hope you use plastic starch. I know that you will get satisfactory results from that. Of course, the other starch will do, but the plastic will not absorb moisture.

Dear Heloise:

My husband and I were playing cards when he said, "Look at my eyes watering." "What are you watering your eyes for?" I answered. He said, "I'm just watering the irises." And that's what comes of marrying an Irishman!

Free Baked Potato At State Fair

One potato, two potato, three potato, four, five potato, six potato, seven potato, more... they'll probably lose count at the Potato Booth in the Horticulture Building at the 1970 New York State Fair in Syracuse where the Department of Agriculture and Markets will serve delicious baked potatoes to Fairgoers daily, free.

The booth, co-sponsored by the Empire State Potato Club and the Long Island Potato Growers Association, will feature the new variety "Bake-King" potato created exclusively for baking by a research specialist at the Plant Science Department of Cornell University.

Mrs. Dorothy Hewlett, senior nutritionist for the Department of Agriculture and Markets will supervise the baking of the potatoes which will go on continuously every day. She will also demonstrate other potato recipes and pass out samples of them. A home economist and a professional demonstrator will aid Mrs. Hewlett.

Last winter, many persons in the Syracuse area had an opportunity to try the new Bake-King variety as it was test marketed there and proved very popular with consumers. The State Fair will be held in Syracuse the week of September first through seventh.

New York State ranks fifth in potato production in the United States with Suffolk County and Steuben County as the chief growing regions.

Awarded Degrees

Two area residents are among the more than 1900 undergraduate and graduate students awarded degrees at University of Rochester's 120th Commencement exercises held last month.

They are Gretchen M. Ellis of 186 Fair Street, Kingston, who received a MA degree from the College of Arts and Science; and Melvin L. Lauderdale of 3 Caywood Place, Hyde Park, who earned a BA degree from the College of Arts and Science.

Gov. and Mrs. Rockefeller to Attend SPA Ball

An appearance by Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller will be one of the highlights of the sixth annual Saratoga Performing Arts Ball to take place Friday, Aug. 7, on the grounds of the Saratoga Reservation just south of Saratoga Springs.

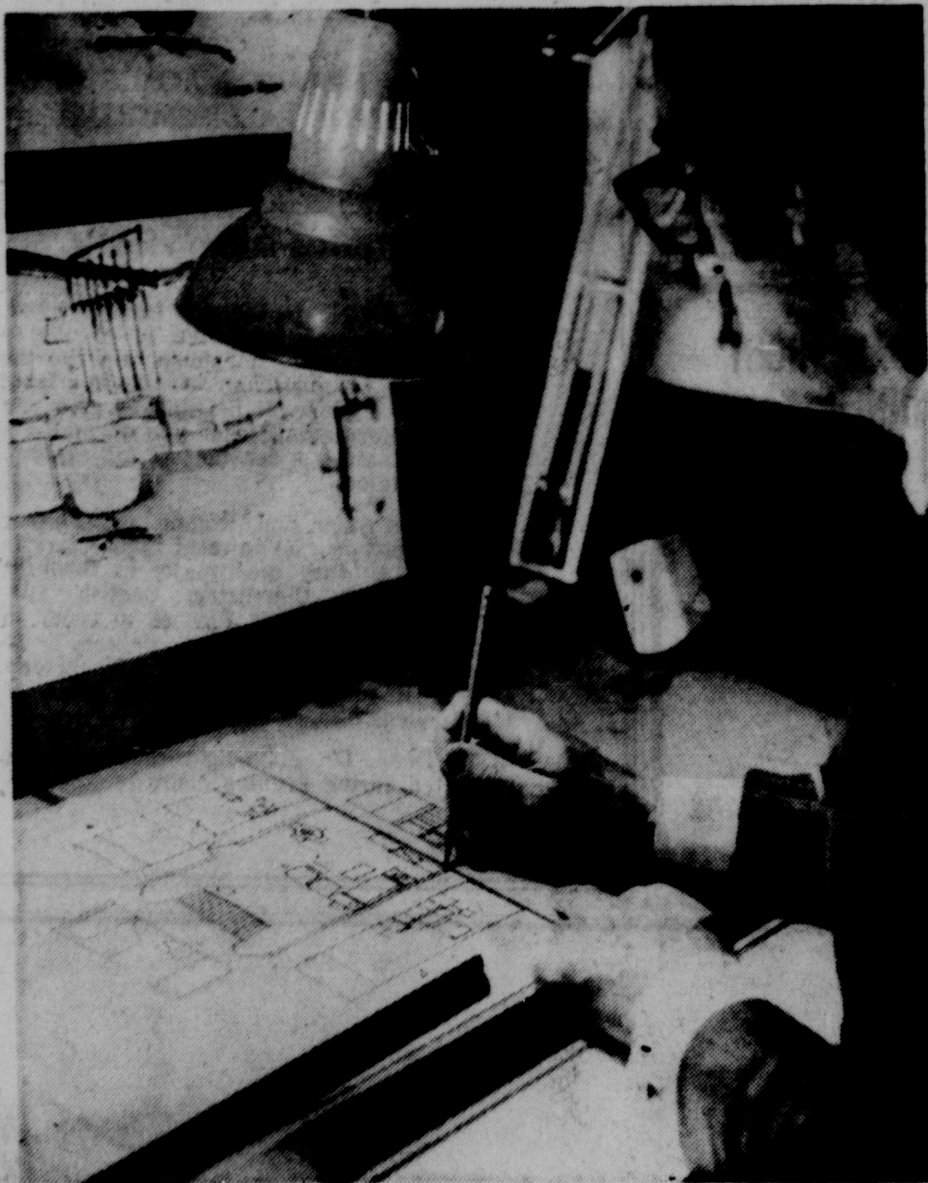

The Governor and Mrs. Rockefeller will attend the black tie event along with some 500 other guests from New York, Philadelphia and the Capital District. The traditional August event is sponsored by the Saratoga Performing Arts Center to raise funds for the organization's educational programs.

The 1970 Ball follows an all-Tschaikovsky concert by The Philadelphia Orchestra conducted by Maestro Eugene Ormandy. Guests will then gather on the lawn of the Hall of Springs for dancing to the music of the Peter Duchin Orchestra and a lobster and champagne supper.

Mrs. Rockefeller, who is the chairman of the board of directors of Saratoga Performing Arts Center, Inc., is the honorary chairman of this year's Ball. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Gene Robb, Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt and Mrs. David L. Yunich. Mrs. C. V. Whitney is Advisory Chairman.

MR. AND MRS. ROY J. POTTS of Cementon were guests of honor at a dinner recently at the church hall of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in West Camp in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary. The event was given by their children Mr. and Mrs. Mervin E. Potts of Schodack Landing, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel P. (Florence) Wynne, Mr. and Mrs. William (Anita) Kulencavich of West Camp. Married July 21, 1920 by the Rev. Jay D. Tompkins, they have lived in Cementon all their married life. Mrs. Potts is the former Estella M. Craft. She has presided at the organ of St. Paul's Lutheran Church for the past 33 years, and prior to that time, she was assistant organist for several years. She is also active in the women's organization of the church. Her husband retired from Alpha Portland Cement Company several years ago. Relatives, neighbors and friends attended the gala. Miss Grace A. Plush of Catskill, niece of Mrs. Potts, and Mrs. Harry Rifenburgh of Germantown, niece of Mr. Potts, presided at the two punch bowls. The honored couple, accompanied by their attendants of 50 years ago, Mrs. Merle C. Plush and Percy D. Moon, entered the dining hall to the strains of the "Anniversary Waltz", played by the Paul Trio of East Greenbush. Approximately 100 guests enjoyed a baked ham dinner, prepared and served by Mrs. Jack Prendergast and her staff. The invocation was given by the Rev. Urban Maggio of St. Mary's Church in Cementon. A wedding cake was served which had been made and decorated by Mrs. William Spinney of Gloucester, Mass., a close friend of the family. The children's gift to their parents was a family tree of studio portraits of each member of the family: Merwin, Nancy, Amy and Joe Potts; Florence, Daniel Sr., Daniel Jr., Terrance, Timothy Wynne; and Anita, William Sr. and William Kulencavich Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Potts received greetings and a gift from the pastor and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. Alvin Messersmith who are vacationing in England. They also received many other gifts.

Hi Feet! What's New?

Did you ever stop to think that your shoes can kill or create applause for your entire outfit?

Genevieve Gilles, lovely French actress and star of the 20th Century-Fox picture HELLO-GOODBYE, was spotted walking down a New York street recently and she was so chic that three girl-watching workmen almost fell back into the ditch they were digging. She is a strong argument for the Midi. She has one of the best figures in films and, we are told, she looked so totally appealing in a simple, covered-up Midi costume. Her Midi skirt was blue denim that reached only a few inches from her ankles and she wore a turquoise silk shirt. But the secret of why the Midi looked so elegant — besides the fact that a beautiful, blonde film star was wearing it — is the SHOES she wore with it. The bottom of the Midi is so close to the shoe tops, the two things are inseparable at a glance. Genevieve's shoes were black leather sandals with double-wide straps across the instep and soft-looking, two-inch block-type heels.

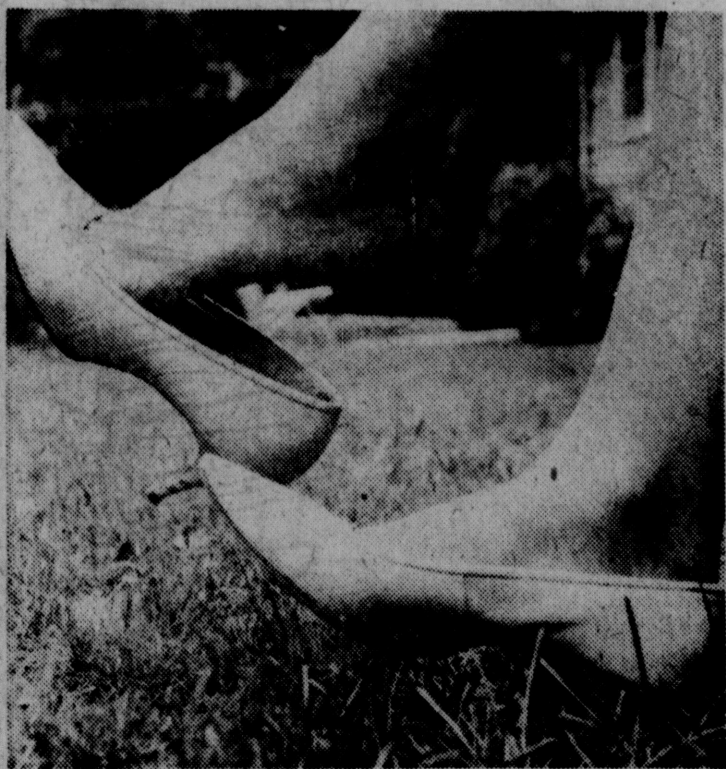

Our Freeman photographer also saw some interesting shoes around town last week. It was a hot, blistering afternoon, and these shoes told a story all their own without the aid of mini, midi or maxi skirts.

PEEK-A-BOO SUMMER on hot, tired feet is the story unfolded here. As long as those sneaker soles keep a safe distance between hot feet and scorching road, they're in good shape. As for the portholes — we just don't pay any attention to them, do we? (Freeman photo by Haines).

BRING FLOWERS OF THE RAREST is what they said and we did. Sandals are the "in" thing this summer and someone just wanted to brighten things up a bit more with these lovely blooms. Besides, if feet are made to look good, they might think they feel good also. (Freeman photo by Haines).

AH! THAT FEELS GOOD and now the speaker can go on and on. How many times have you experienced the delicious moment when you could slip off your shoes at a public function and never get noticed? Not only does it feel great, but somehow the speaker takes a little more lift also. (Freeman photo by Haines).

GOP Team: Housewives for Rocky

Governor Rockefeller announced today that Mrs. Dorothy McHugh of New York City and Mrs. Eunice Whittlesey of Scotia will be State Co-Chairmen of Housewives for Rockefeller and His Team in his campaign for re-election. They will direct this program for the Rockefeller State Campaign Headquarters in New York City (575 Madison Avenue).

Housewives for Rockefeller and His Team, a program which proved highly successful in the Governor's 1966 campaign, will be directed toward informing the women of New York State of the Governor's record of achievement and the need to continue his positive, effective leadership into the 1970's.

As State Co-Chairmen, Mrs. McHugh and Mrs. Whittlesey will oversee the activities of fifty County Housewives Chairmen and their volunteers who will distribute literature, attend rallies, and welcome the Governor at receptions throughout the state during the campaign.

In accepting this appointment, Mrs. McHugh carries on her active leadership in Republican politics on both the state and national levels. She is presently Republican National Committeewoman for New York State, and in 1968 was a delegate to the Republican National Convention in Miami. Mrs. McHugh was Campaign Co-Manager for Governor Rockefeller's 1962 and 1966 campaigns for re-election. One of her major interests has been encouraging minority groups to become active in Republican Party politics.

Mrs. McHugh has also been active in many New York City service organizations. She was a member of the Community Service Society, a board member of the Association for Homemaker Service, Inc., and a volunteer at Dr. Howard Rusk's Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation for eight years. She is currently on the board of the Inwood Home for Unwed Mothers.

Mrs. McHugh is the wife of Keith S. McHugh, former State Commissioner of Commerce. They reside at 10

Gracie Square in New York City.

Schenectady County has long been aware of Mrs. Eunice Whittlesey's involvement and leadership in political activities. In 1966, she organized at the request of Governor Rockefeller "Volunteers Tie-Line" designed to serve as a two-way communication between the women of New York State and their government in Albany.

She was a charter member of the Republican Citizens Committee of Schenectady County, and is a member of the Schenectady County Republican Club and the Glenville Republican Club, serving as County Housewives Chairman for Rockefeller in 1966 and County Chairman for Nixon-Agnew in 1968.

Mrs. Whittlesey also has an enviable record in many other service and community affairs. She is a board member of the Family and Child Service of Schenectady County, Council Member and Chairman of the Academic Committee at the State University at Cobleskill, and member of the Clean Air Committee of the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Diseases Association for the four-county area.

Mrs. Whittlesey has taught in Otsego and Oneida County schools. She is currently a member of the American Association of University Women, serving as Chairman of Community Problems, Status of Women, Legislation and Program.

She is the wife of Joseph Whittlesey, an electrical engineer with the General Electric Company in Schenectady. They reside at 118 Acorn Drive in Scotia with their daughter Anne, 15.

The Second Forty

By MARGARET BROOKFIELD

(A forum about mature women)

RETIREMENT JOY

Dear Miss Brookfield:

I read the letter from the Buffalo reader who wrote that after educating three children, she and her husband, who is about to retire, are broke. She claimed her children couldn't contribute because they were all married and had financial problems of their own.

We are a retired couple living in Central Texas and having a gay old time. We educated a son but we also saved a small portion of our income to pay for a home, a small business and savings for a "rainy day." We accumulated our income and property by hard work. (we also own a lake cottage), close cooperation and frank, family discussions on finances. When they don't own property, families are unwise to live beyond their means to educate children. I would advise this woman to forget her ego and ask the children to contribute. The children owe her this help. All they "loan" her to buy a house will go back to them anyway. We entertain, dine out, camp, fish and go boating. It takes one or two years to adjust to retirement. But it's worth it.

M.E., Austin, Tex.

Dear M.E.:
You seem to have discovered the ideal congratulations.

Lonely But Careful

Dear Miss Brookfield:
I am a lonely widow looking for male companionship. Can you send me the names and addresses of any lonely men who write to you? I'll take it from there. I have raised a family and am alone. I would like to live a little. But a lady has to be so careful.

M.L., Baltimore, Md.

We concur wholeheartedly with your last statement. But as we, too, believe in being cautious, we cannot indiscriminately pass along the identity of strangers who write us. Sorry.

Unfaithful Husband

Dear Miss Brookfield:
In a recent column you advised a woman who saw her friend's husband dining keep this news to herself. I think that what you don't know often can and does hurt

you. In this situation, I would have phoned the husband to tell him about my concern for the future of his marriage. He might get angry and tell me it was none of my business. But everyone I care about is my business. If the husband explained the dinner date satisfactorily I would apologize, and, of course, say nothing to his wife. True, he might be lying when he claims the date was innocent but still he would know the affair is an "open secret."

The conversation with the husband would indicate the next step. If I decided to inform his wife, I would be prepared for an initial, angry reaction. But eventually, an old friend is able to distinguish between a friend and a meddling busybody. I think ignorance or pretended ignorance of marital infidelity is a great mistake on the part of women. Confrontation is best. Then, the marriage will either collapse or be rebuilt.

J.S., Madison, Wis.

Dear J.S.:
We doubt that many women would agree with this Russian roulette confrontation theory of yours, especially with a 50-50 chance that the marriage may collapse.

We also doubt, in the theoretical conversation you describe with the husband, if the implication that the "affair" was an "open secret" would have the desired result. With some men, all it might do is serve as a warning to be more careful in choosing restaurants to dine with "the other woman."

Share America

This summer invite visiting foreign friends for an American meal. Broil Porterhouse or sirloin steaks on the grill and bake potatoes and corn-on-the-cob among the coals. Prepare a crisp tossed salad and top off the dinner with strawberry shortcake or apple pie with a slice of sharp American cheese. A supper menu could include beefburgers or hot dogs, along with baked beans and potato salad or potato chips, for the main course and chocolate cake a la mode for dessert.

Hyde Park: It's Gay All the Way!

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

The Hyde Park Playhouse production of Mart Crowley's BOYS IN THE BAND lives up to every expectation. It opened last night with a cast of top actors in the critically acclaimed play about the life and loves of homosexuals.

BOYS IN THE BAND is comedy because we who tip the scales in favor of the norm see it that way. Homosexuals have always been good for a laugh and Crowley packs a wallop for us in his first act about the mating of like with like. It is indeed a scream. You'll laugh at every line, every swish of the hips and wave of the limp wrist.

Don't for a minute, however, think that BOYS IN THE BAND will merely entertain you. It will also give you a fairly good idea of what life is all about for these tormented, misunderstood misfits. The author uncovers varying dimensions of homosexuality in a very realistic situation and, at the same time, tries to gain your sympathy for these boys and men who find themselves living against nature's order of life. The pain of living as a homosexual, the social pressures and details of sex hunger which eventually drive these "fags, fairies and queens" to extremes, is all uncovered deftly and carefully for the audience to see and absorb. It is a lesson about the effects of smothering mother love, social taboos, psychological hang-ups, weaknesses, and biological imbalances — all of which can be attributed to producing a "she," a "Mary," a "queen."

PAUL RUD

While all eight actors give excellent performances, Page Johnson as Emory is an absolute scene stealer. In this play, Johnson portrays a homosexual as the general public sees one. He is hilarious. A seasoned actor, Johnson has appeared with such "names" as Lee Marvin, Robert Stack, Ann Blyth and Dorothy Collins. A man with very impressive stage and TV credits, he has appeared in barns, garages and grange halls as well.

Dennis Cooney as Michael is recreating the role after doing it in both the Los Angeles and San Francisco companies. A talented actor, he has appeared at Lincoln Center in New York as Paris in TIGER AT THE GATES and Christian in CYRANO DE BERGERAC. Prior to that he created the role of Geoffrey in the Broadway production of THE LION IN WINTER.

On TV, he is best known as Alan Sterling in the CBS serial, LOVE OF LIFE.

Also in the cast are Paul Rud as Donald; Ron Baad as Hank; Christopher Bernau, Austin, Soker, Jered Mickey, Don Nute and Bill Moor.

Moor and Nute have appeared in other productions of BOYS IN THE BAND. Moor was with the National Las Vegas and New York Companies while Nute was cast in the recent Baltimore Company and Florida productions. Rudd is another graduate of the same play having appeared with the National and New York Companies. There is little doubt but that Hyde Park Playhouse has come up with the finest cast.

BOYS IN THE BAND will play through Saturday with a Wednesday matinee at 2 p.m. and a twilight show Saturday at 6 p.m. All other curtains are at 8:30 p.m.

Applause for Peter O'Rourke who has gathered a cast of veteran actors for this difficult production and to director Murray Gittlin who also directed the highly acclaimed productions of the show in San Francisco, Florida and New York.

Gov. Rockefeller Will Give Award to Ormandy

Gifts in honor of the 70th birthday of Maestro Eugene Ormandy and the 70th anniversary of The Philadelphia Orchestra, both of which fall in 1970, will be presented by Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller Aug. 7 at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

The ceremonies will take place during the intermission of the Orchestra's concert of that evening, an all-Tschaikovsky program, which is being conducted by Maestro Ormandy.

New York's chief executive and Mrs. Rockefeller will present conductor and orchestra with Steuben glass horse heads as official expressions of the Center's appreciation of their contributions to the cultural life of the state and the nation. The Philadelphia Orchestra has been in permanent summer residence at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center since its inception in 1966.

Maestro Ormandy's gift also recognizes his extraordinary services to his art during the 33 years he has been music director and conductor of one of the world's great orchestras. The honor paid to the Philadelphia Orchestra will be formally accepted by C. Ball.

Wanton Ballis Jr., and Richard C. Bond, who are chairman and president, respectively, of The Philadelphia Orchestra Association.

Following the concert, Gov. and Mrs. Rockefeller will join Maestro Ormandy, officials of the Center and Orchestra, and 500 guests at the sixth annual Saratoga Performing Arts Ball.

Annual Tea

The Kingston Welcome Wagon Club will hold its annual get-acquainted tea on Wednesday, Aug. 5, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Kurzawa in Woodstock.

Regular members and new members are invited. Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Jinx Bernstein of West Hurley.

August Bazaar

The Presentation Women's Club of Port Ewen will hold its annual bazaar Friday and Saturday, Aug. 7-8, on the church grounds beginning at 7 p.m.

A variety of booths and refreshments will be available. The public is invited.

Luncheon Meeting

Mrs. Decker Bradshaw, president of Woodstock Garden Club, has announced the Wednesday, Aug. 5 meeting will be a luncheon meeting at Norrie Point Inn at 1 p.m.

Final travel instructions will be given the members on the day of the meeting when they assemble at A&P parking lot at 11:30 a.m.

Mervelous Minute

Cubed beef steaks are especially appropriate for summer cooking because they take so little time to prepare. For an intriguing entree, season the Italian way with oregano and basil and top each first-browned side with a slice of mozzarella or Romano cheese for added appeal.

Upcoming Shows Announced

Peter O'Rourke announced at a press cocktail party last Friday that the Hyde Park Playhouse will present James Whitmore in WILL ROGERS U.S.A. on August 31.

Whitmore, star of stage, screen and television, scores a hit with this one-man show. He is authentically Rogers with his cowboy hat, gum chewing and witty humor.

Paul Shyre, who adapted the show for the stage, has culled the best of the cowboy philosopher's folksy humor, ranging from politics to the medical profession and the ZIEGFELD FOLLIES in which Rogers starred.

The production, in two acts, runs about 80 minutes and is laced with laughter.

Whitmore is a very well known actor. He began his career at Yale University. After service with the Marines in the South Pacific, he resumed his career on Broadway in COMMAND

DECISION for which he received a coveted Antoinette Perry Award. His Hollywood career includes BATTLE GROUND, PLANET OF THE APES and GUNS OF THE MAGNIFICENT SEVEN. He has also starred in his own series including THE LAW AND MR. JONES and most recently MY FRIEND, TONY.

John Gavin will be coming up next in the Hyde Park production of FANTASTIKS. This opens on August 3.

Other shows will include: Pat O'Brien in ME AND THREE, opening on August 10; Dennis Cole of BRACKEN'S WORLD in ALL THE GIRLS CAME OUT TO PLAY, opening August 17; and Betty Grable in BORN YESTERDAY, August 24.

Three children's shows are in the offering. These include PECOS BILL on August 6 with curtain at 11 a.m.; PIED PIPER on August 27; and WIZARD OF OZ on September 3.

HOW TO KEEP YOUR FAMILY IN

hot water

Enjoy All The Advantages of OIL-FIRED
water heating...

How often have you stepped into the shower after another member of your family, only to find a short supply of hot water or no hot water at all?

The answer to this problem is Heat Recovery.

Oil heat generates hot water as much as five times as fast as electricity, three times as fast as gas.

And it does the job for as little as one-third to one-half the cost!

With an oil water heater you'll have all the instantaneous hot water your family will need — for showers, shaving, dishwasher, clothes washer, etc.

It will pay you to learn about the many advantages of having an oil water heater. A phone call to your local oil supplier will bring you full details.

Sears to Build the Tallest In the Windy City Loop

CHICAGO (UPI)—Sears, Roebuck and Co. has announced it will build the tallest building in the world—200 feet taller than the Empire State building—in Chicago's loop.

The new Sears building is to rise 1,450 feet from the street and house 16,500 persons, 7,000 of them Sears employees. It would be 100 feet taller than the World Trade Center, under construction in New York City, which is to be 1,350 feet tall.

New York's Empire State building, long the tallest in the world, will become the third tallest at 1,250 feet.

The new building, named the Sears tower, will be 109 stories high and have a gross area of more than 4.4 million square feet, spokesmen said.

Gordon M. Metcalf, Sears chairman and chief executive officer, said the building is to be completed by 1974 and will be the company's national headquarters.

Metcalf said the tower also will be the largest private office building in the world. The fourth tallest building in the world, after the Sears, Trade Center, and Empire State buildings, would be the Standard Oil Building, also in Chicago.

Standard Oil announced plans earlier to erect its own 1,136-foot building about 1 1/2 miles north east of the Sears tower. Fifth tallest will be the already completed John Hancock center in Chicago, which is 1,107 feet tall.

Raped Girl Describes Men Who Drowned Companion

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—A 17-year-old Detroit girl has given authorities a full description of two men who abducted her and her escort, forced them to drive to a spot near here, raped and shot her and beat and drowned her companion.

The body of Harold Nabors, 18, was found Monday in Grapevine Creek near here. Authorities said he had been beaten and his hands and feet tied. An autopsy showed he was alive when his body entered the water.

The girl and Nabors were black; the attackers white.

The girl told police she and Nabors were kidnapped in front of a downtown Detroit movie house late Sunday night.

At Grapevine Creek the kidnapers beat Nabors unconscious, bound him and threw him into the river, the girl said. She said she was then raped. The men escaped in Nabors' car after inflicting minor scalp wounds with a small-caliber pistol.

The girl stumbled to the farmhouse of Daniel Nowicki and appealed for help.

Police said she identified the abductors as about 30 years old and provided a detailed description of each, including hairstyles, tattoos and clothing.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation joined the investigation, according to local authorities.

Andre Previn Gets Divorce

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Composer Andre Previn, current companion of actress Mia Farrow and the father of her recently born twins, was divorced Monday from his wife of 11 years.

Previn, 41, filed the petition for dissolution of marriage citing "irreconcilable differences."

The composer-conductor and Mrs. Dore Previn, 44, a noted lyricist, agreed on a financial settlement providing for equal distribution of community property including real estate in California, Hawaii and England and royalties on songs they co-authored.

The couple was married in Las Vegas in 1959 and separated in February, 1969.

Tommy the Traveler: Characters Added

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (UPI)—Thirty-two new names will be added to the cast of characters in the "Tommy the Traveler" controversy as prospective grand jurors are picked here today for a state probe of the incidents at Hobart College, June 5.

E. Garret Cleary, one of the special prosecutors appointed by the governor to head the probe, said he expects to call about two dozen witnesses after the jury is impaneled.

Cleary said some of the parties involved have requested permission to examine the jurors before they are seated, but he hoped the 23 members could be picked "within a day or two" after the hearing begins Aug. 13.

Thomas (Tommy the Traveler) Tongyai has become the center of a controversy arising from an abortive drug raid by sheriff's deputies on the Hobart campus.

After the raid, which Tongyai took part in, Ontario County Sheriff Raymond O. Morrow said Tongyai had been working for his office as an undercover agent on the campus in Geneva. Tongyai, 27, was eventually suspended from his job after he was arrested on a harassment charge filed by one of the five students arrested as a result of the raid. Rafael Martinez, 37, the Hobart senior who brought the charge, had filed a complaint against Tongyai at least one week before the raid.

Meanwhile, Martinez and two other arrested students filed a $3.75 million damage suit against local officials and Rockefeller ordered the special probe.

After Tongyai was revealed by the sheriff to be an undercover agent, several Hobart students claimed he had tried to provoke students to violence in his role as a radical leader.

The state investigators said the probe will concentrate on the events leading up to and including the June 57 raid. It is expected to go into Tongyai's specific purpose and movements on the campus.

Last week, Tongyai was released on $7,500 bail after he was ordered held as a material witness in the state investigation.

Cleary said the probe so far has attempted to confirm reports that Tongyai had applied for a police job in Bucks County, Pennsylvania. He said that the report has not yet been confirmed.

On the application Tongyai allegedly filed in the southeastern Pennsylvania county, he reportedly lists an FBI agent from Geneva as a reference.

Asked if any link between Tongyai and the FBI had been turned up by the state probe, Cleary said "as yet it has not."

Esopus Blanks Hurley, 5-0, for LL Honors

KINGSTON About 7:45 p.m. Monday evening, the Esopus Little League victory caravan—horns blowing and fans cheering—shattered the residential stillness of lower Lucas Avenue.

Startled residents came flocking to their porches and lawns awed by the uncommon commotion for that sedate area so early in the evening.

The Esopus enroute was heading for its home grounds of Port Ewen—the District 16 Little League title secured by a decisive 5-0 victory over the Hurley Little League at Jaycees Little League Stadium.

And the biggest hero of all was, of course, Cliff Lyons, the combination pitcher-slugger who shut out the Hurley team on one scratch hit (off his own glove) struck out 13 and collected two of the three Esopus hits off Hurley pitcher Joe Seymour, who pitched a lot better than the final score indicates.

All in First Inning The game seemed to start and end right in the first inning. And the victory qualified the Esopus team for a Sub-Divisional clash with the powerful Beacon team Wednesday evening at Highland.

Rick Hoffstatter, the Hurley shortstop and leadoff, slashed a liner off Lyons' glove to launch the game but stayed put as the Esopus ace struck out Al Johnson and Jim Stothoff and got the third out when left fielder Eddie Mendock made a brilliant grab of Seymour's sinking liner to left field.

Esopus' first turn at bat developed into a nightmare for young Seymour and the Hurley rooters and instant joy for the large delegation of Esopus followers.

Leadoff Terry Barton was safe when shortstop Hoffstatter erred on his grounder. Seymour walked Vince Modeen and Art Shelightner was safe on another infield miscue, loading the bases with none out. Lyons tapped to short but the throw to the plate was too late to head off Barton. Brant Thomas' infield out scored Modeen and a series of wild pegs accounted for Shelightner and Lyons.

Seymour struck out the next two batters to end the inning and the rest of the way the game settled down to a superb pitching duel between two fine, young right handers.

Singleton's Single Saves Seaver's 15th Victory, 5-3

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP (By United Press International)

Ken Singleton's fifth inning single scored Tom Seaver from third with the tie-breaking run Monday night as the New York Mets edged the San Francisco Giants and Gaylor Perry, 5-3 at Shea Stadium.

For Seaver, it was his 15th win of the season against five losses. He was shelled for the first two innings, giving up three runs, settled down to blank the Giants for the final seven innings. He joined Jim Merritt as the National League's only 15-game winners. Perry is 14-10.

Joe Foy had a two-run homer and Cleon Jones hit his fourth home run of the season. Bobby Bonds clocked his 15th circuit shot for the Giants.

Willie Mays tied Lou Gehrig for fourth place in the all-time runs scored category when he scored against the Mets after getting a base-hit in the first inning. For Mays, it was the 1,888 time he has crossed the plate. The top three are Ty Cobb at 2,245, Babe Ruth 2,174 and Stan Musial 1,949.

In the American League, the Yankees snapped a four-game losing streak by defeating the California Angels, 5-2, in 10 innings at Anaheim.

Paul Doyle, pitching for the Angels in relief, went wild and issued free passes to pinchhitters Bobby Murcer and Ron Hansen with the bases loaded as the Yankees staged a rally.

Righthander Mel Stottlemyre went the distance for the eighth time this season, posting his 10th victory against nine defeats. He allowed just five hits and two walks in his duel with Rudy May.

In National League action, Tony Taylor, Deron Johnson and Larry Hise hit home runs to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 10-3 rout of the Los Angeles Dodgers. It was the 10th victory in the last 12 games for the Phils. Woody Fryman got the win with relief help from Dick Selma.

Wes Parker hit his ninth home run of the season, this one with Manny Mota aboard for the Dodgers.

The St. Louis Cardinals outslugged the Cincinnati Reds, 16-9 as Richie Allen smacked two homers and Mike Shannon tripled with the bases loaded. Carl Taylor, Julian Javier and Joe Torre hanged three hits apiece for the winners. Johnny Bench blasted his 34th homer for the Reds. Bench leads both leagues in that department.

Minnesota dropped Baltimore in the American League, 5-2 as Rich Reese tripled in two runs and scored on a double by Tony Oliva in the third inning. The win gave the Twins a 7-5 series edge over the Birds as the teams faced each other for the last time during the regular season.

Ford Frick Hailed Father of 'Hall'

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (UPI)—Baseball honored three former major league stars and one ex-commissioner Monday by placing their names among the greats of the game in the Hall of Fame.

Ford C. Frick, a former commissioner and known as the "father of the Hall of Fame," was enshrined along with five-time American League infielder Lou Boudreau, ex-New York Yankee Earle Combs and former St. Louis Cardinal pitching ace Jesse Haines.

Their induction preceded the annual major league inter-league game at Doubleday Field, won by the Montreal Expos as they shattered the Chicago White Sox, 10-6, with a 14-hit attack that included homers by Bobby Wine and Ron Brand.

Bowie Kuhn, the current baseball commissioner, introduced Frick as the person who "more than any man in the United States deserves the title as the father of the Baseball Hall of Fame. His genius, foresight and determination brought into existence this magnificent shrine."

Frick's tenure as commissioner covered 14 years, 1951-1965. Prior to that service, he was the National League president from 1934 to 1951. His devotion to the game as a sports writer earned Frick the later executive positions.

Boudreau, father-in-law of Detroit Tiger pitcher Denny McLain, managed four clubs, but gained his fame as a shortstop and skipper for the Cleveland Indians. He compiled a lifetime batting average of .295 in 14 seasons and was the A.L. Most Valuable Player during Cleveland's successful pennant drive of 1948.

Combs was part of the Babe Ruth-Lou Gehrig Murderer's Row that consistently bombed enemy pitching and brought the Yankees 11 pennants and nine world series championships. Combs posted a .325 lifetime batting average in 20 seasons. Haines, who pitched for the Cards and the Cincinnati Reds, won 210 games in 19 years (1918-1937). He won two games when the Cards won their first World Series in 1926 and fondly remembers beating Hall of Famer Robert "Lefty" Grove in a 1930 World Series game against the Philadelphia Athletics.

In Monday's game, John O'Donoghue worked the first five innings and was credited with the victory. Jim Magnuson started for the White Sox and gave up six runs in five innings.

Lombardi Through?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Vince Lombardi's chances of coaching time but has not attempted to take up active coaching duties again.

He watched the Baltimore rookie game from the press box and told newsmen he was "much better, thanks." However, newsmen said he showed a loss of weight and some tiredness.

After the Redskins rookies lost, Lombardi took an elevator to the basement locker room and talked to the squad briefly.

Lombardi, 57, suddenly reentered Georgetown University Hospital without advance notice Monday. He was operated on at 4:30 p.m. EDT. The nature of the new surgery was not disclosed but doctors reported he was "resting comfortably."

A team of surgeons on June 27 removed two feet of Lombardi's colon after discovery of what they described as a seemingly benign tumor in the abdominal area.

There was no indication from either the hospital or Redskins officials of the nature of the new surgery.

Lombardi, a builder of championship dynasties at Green Bay before coming to the Redskins last season, had been recuperating at home from the earlier two-hour and 15-minute operation.

Lombardi attended a scrimmage between the rookies of the Redskins and the Baltimore Colts in Baltimore Sunday but has done no coaching since his surgery.

As executive vice president of the Redskins, he also attended a meeting of the National Football League owners in New York last week to discuss the deadlocked labor dispute with the NFL players association.

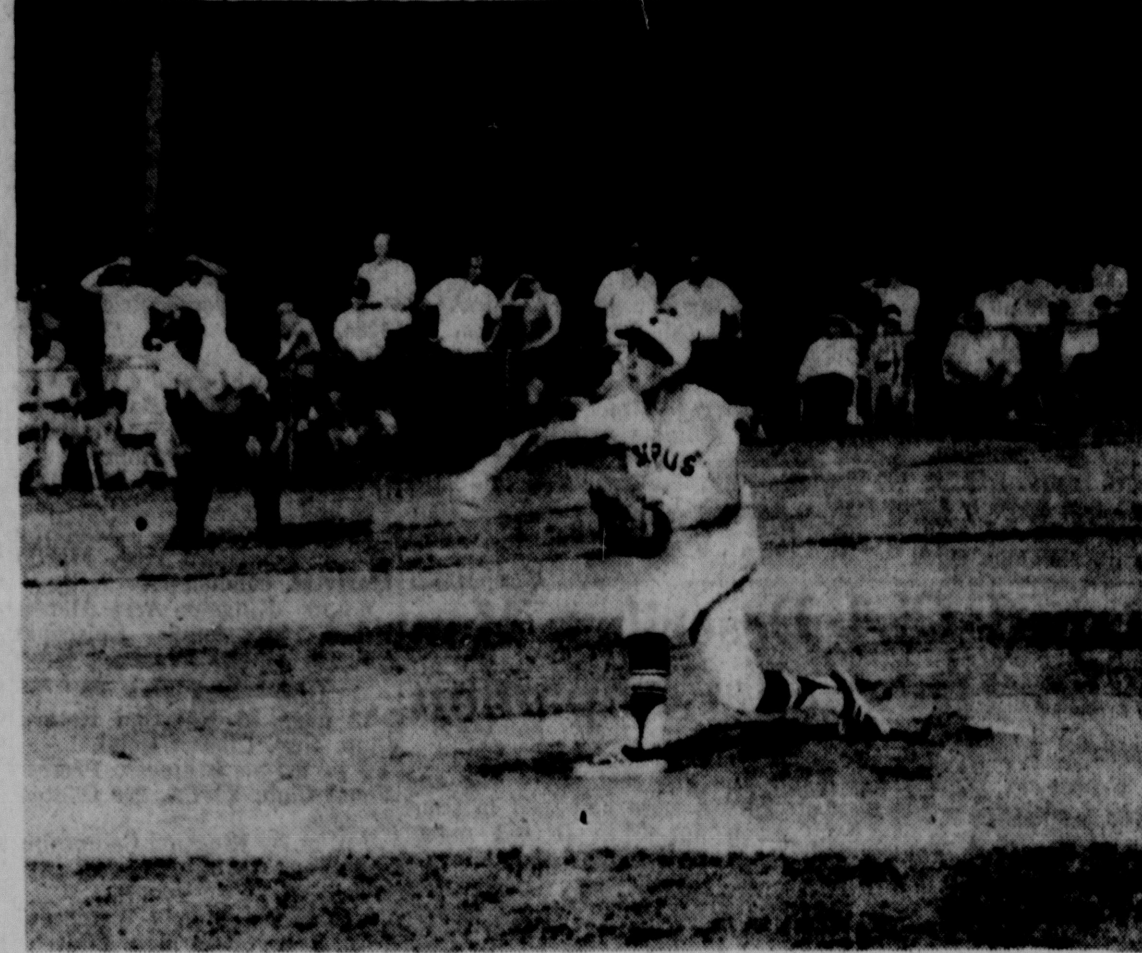

While incapacitated, he named assistant Bill Austin as "interim coach" of the Redskins after the team's rookies reported to training camp at Carlisle, Pa., earlier this month.

However, he declared his intention of being on hand at Carlisle whenever the contract dispute with the players was settled and the veterans reported.

Club president Edward Bennett Williams notified team officials in Carlisle Monday that Lombardi had reentered the hospital but according to a club spokesman gave no other details of possible complications or treatment.

After the exploratory surgery in June, Lombardi's team of surgeons said they believed the tumor they found was benign or non-malignant. Results of more extensive laboratory tests were never announced.

Lombardi left the hospital July 13 and has been at home with his wife, Marie. On one or two occasions he has appeared in local restaurants at lunch-

Showdown at Dietz Braves Vs. Lasers

KINGSTON The Kingston Braves face the Poughkeepsie Lasers in a "must" game at Dietz Stadium tonight. The Lasers, defending champions of the Mid-Hudson Rookie League, have defeated the Braves once this season and are currently riding a 16-game winning streak. The game will start at 8 p.m.

Poughkeepsie won the first round with a 10-2 mark and are 7-0 so far in the second round. The Braves are 8-3 in the first round, with one game to play and are 6-0 in the second round. If Poughkeepsie wins, they would have a good shot at taking all the marbles, averting the usual playoff between the first and second round winners to see who would represent the Northern Section in the championship series with the winners of the Southern Division.

If the Braves win, it would put Kingston ahead of Poughkeepsie and could possibly set the stage for a playoff.

Buster Narum, former major league chucker, will take the mound for the Braves. Narum pitched three innings of the opening game against Poughkeepsie with the Braves winning, 3-0. Charlie Moore finished the game.

In the second meeting, the Lasers won, 1-0, behind the two-hit pitching of John Kelly. Narum took the loss, but the one run scored was unearned.

In two games, the Braves have seven hits five and two; three runs, three and 0; walked two and struck out seven times. Poughkeepsie has managed four hits, two and two; one run, 0-one; walked two, one-one; and struck out 15 times, six and nine.

Bernie Schaeffer and Dave Horton are the leading hitters against Kelly and the Lasers, going two-for-six for a .333 average. Greg Rios and Jerry Hawkins have gone one-for-six for .166, while Narum is one-for-four, .250. Kingston, as a team, has batted seven for 50 or .140.

John DiStefano, Poughkeepsie's leading hitter with a .438 average, has hit Kingston pitching at .333, two-for-six. Alex Terpak is one-for-five and .200. John Alley is one-for-six, .166.

Kelly has always been a thorn in the side of the Braves. The big right-hander seems to pitch his best against Kingston. However, Kelly may not get the nod tonight as he pitched a complete game Sunday against the Newburgh Atoms, picking up his fifth win against one loss, for the season.

If Kelly doesn't pitch, left-hander Mickey SaVino may get the nod. SaVino, formerly in the New York Yankee chain and a three-year veteran of the Canadian League, is 8-0 on the season with a 1.41 earned run average. Unlike Kelly, SaVino isn't overly fast, but is one of the best "junk" pitchers around with a good curve, slider and knuckleball. He is also the second leading hitter on the Lasers with a .389 average.

This will be, however the first time the Lasers have played in Dietz Stadium this season and, as many area baseball buffs put it, "Narum in Dietz Stadium is like Sonny Liston in a two-foot ring."

Cavett and Welles Excel

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Dick Cavett came up with one of the year's most adult, amusing and sophisticated shows Monday when he devoted his entire late-night ABC-TV outing to a 90-minute talk with the legendary Orson Welles.

The two men got along swimmingly, and the sophistication was the best kind: Not the effete, empty chatter of show-biz types who drop names to cover up for a lack of ideas, but, rather, a down-to-earth exchange of charming and sometimes ribald experiences.

Most of the experiences discussed, of course, were those of the formidable Welles, now rotund, but with—as always—one of the most interesting faces in captivity: Bearded, pleasantly shaped despite the size of the rest of him, a twinkle in his eyes, and with a big cigar that fits in naturally as part of his makeup.

His lack of affectation in the interview immediately won over the audience. When a legend manages to come across with simple common sense and earthy good humor, he can have his way with any audience, and so Welles did. If his rare reminiscences seemed at times to smack of a bit of actorish embroidery, it mattered little, because zest and enthusiasm were obviously at work.

They were very funny together, Welles and Cavett. At one point, Welles started interviewing Cavett, who at first seemed rather shy about discussing himself. But Welles pressed on, and Cavett noted, among other things, that he had written for Jack Paar, among others, Welles wanted to know about the others.

"Does Jerry Lewis ring a bell?" asked Cavett.

"Like a dim gong," said Welles, who thereupon launched into some needling of Lewis.

Cavett's only weakness as a host has been to let experts on weighty subjects subtly take the program away from him, simple, short ones. He noted, because he cannot know every-thing about everything, and he-sons will say they "conceive" defers even when he shouldn't something, rather than "see" But in light conversation with witty guests he manages to come up with the right lines. Welles, for instance, said he felt young persons today tended to use longer words rather than self, broke up.

WHY WE SAY

ARMY: A vanguard is something that is in advance of its time. The word is a shortened form of the French "avant-garde." It actually refers to the advance guard of an army that goes before the troops as a spearhead.

South Koreans Sink Communist Gunboat

SEOUL (UPI) — South Korean navy gunners and air force jets sank a 60-ton North Korean gunboat early today with the apparent loss of all men aboard, the Defense Ministry said.

The engagement off the eastern coast began late Monday on the 17th anniversary of the signing of the armistice that ended the Korean War of 1950-53.

The North Korean vessel was sighted and fired upon by shore batteries. It returned the fire before fleeing north from Yongduk, 155 miles southeast of Seoul.

The ministry said the boat was apparently trying to land Communist agents.

About six hours later the boat was sighted off Sokcho, 95 miles east of here, by South Korean sailors who summoned the air force.

Air force jets pursued the ship as it fled on a zig-zag course, and sank it with rockets about seven miles south of the demarcation line, ministry sources said. The ministry said a South Korean civilian was injured by a stray bullet from the boat.

The crew, estimated at seven to eight men, apparently went down with the boat, the ministry said, but South Korean vessels were searching for survivors.

It was the third naval clash in Korean waters this year. Today's incident came while the United States and South Korea were discussing an American proposal to withdraw about one-third of the 65,000 U.S. troops stationed in Korea.

Defense Minister Jung Nae-Huik, who met U.S. Deputy Defense Secretary David M. Packard in Honolulu last week, said Monday he had asked written U.S. assurances for American military intervention in Korea if necessary.

Jung told parliament Monday South Korea will discuss a U.S. troop reduction only after the United States agreed to modernize this country's forces to guarantee its security.

He called for the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Indochina, South Korea and Taiwan.

"In the world today, there are one or two super powers which constantly want to oppress the others by force and mistreat the weak and the small while all the time fighting over world hegemony," Chou said.

"The danger of world conflict remains but the era when the fate of the world is over forever," he said. "The myth which inspires fear of the great powers must be broken."

Chou said: "The American troops of aggression as well as all the satellite armed forces must withdraw completely from the three countries (Laos, South Vietnam and Cambodia) of Indochina."

"They must withdraw from South Korea in order to allow the Korean people to realize their aspiration of reunifying their country. They must withdraw from the Chinese province of Taiwan (Formosa) and from the Taiwan Straights. The Chinese people of will liberate Taiwan," Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist China is on Taiwan.

"Despite differences in their social systems, China and France are ardently attached to independence and both oppose control and intervention by great powers."

PARIS (UPI) — Premier Chou En-Lai of Communist China says "there are one or two super powers" in the world who "constantly want to oppress the others by force and mistreat the weak and the small."

The 71-year-old Chou mentioned neither the United States nor the Soviet Union by name in his "super powers" comment in the five-minute interview shown on French television Monday night, one of the rare occasions Chou has been seen on Western TV.

The graying, bushy-eyed Chou was interviewed July 14 by a French television crew.

SECOND OF THE YEAR — An unidentified woman wearing a sari jumped to her death (bottom) from the observation deck (top, below the clock) of the peace tower on Parliament Hill, in Ottawa, Canada, on Monday. This was the second death this year from the 200 foot height. After the death of a 20-year-old man April 1, screening was installed. Officials of the protective staff refused to say how the woman got through the screening. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Egyptians Cracking Down On Proposal Dissidents

By United Press International

Egypt cracked down today on militant Arab guerrillas whose refusal to accept a temporary cease-fire threatens the current Middle East peace efforts.

The Egyptian government announced it was shutting "temporarily" all guerrilla stations broadcasting from Cairo because of the "attitude of some Palestinian organizations towards Egypt's acceptance of the American initiative."

The stations affected by the government's decisions were Al-Fatah's Voice of Assifa (storm) and the Palestine Liberation Organization's Voice of Palestine.

The Israeli cabinet had called a special meeting for today to discuss the American proposal and the guerrillas' refusal to accept any cease-fire. But the meeting was abruptly called off with no immediate explanation. A spokesman said it would be held Wednesday.

The United States alone was known to be concerned about guerrilla opposition to a cease-fire, especially in Jordan where 15,000 Palestinians marched through the capital city of Amman Monday denouncing President Gamal Abdel Nasser and King Hussein.

The radio stations closed by Egypt were the most important used by the Palestinians. Both had repeatedly attacked the U.S. peace proposals and urged Palestinians in Jordan and Syria to break any cease-fire reached with Israel.

An official Egyptian spokesman said Egypt would continue giving "material, military and political" backing to guerrilla groups.

Political sources reported the Israelis willing to accept the U.S. plan provided there are no preconditions and that there is a guarantee both Arab guerrillas and regular Arab forces will observe the standstill, with Egypt promising to freeze any buildup along the Suez Canal. Israel's ambassador to the U.S. met Monday in Washington with U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco to clarify these points and emerged saying the United Nations was not competent to police an effective truce.

Moscow, Bonn Get Down to Brass Tacks

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union and West Germany, a genial beginning behind them, got down to difficult details today in their second negotiating session on a nonaggression pact.

Foreign Ministers Walter Scheel of West Germany and Andrei A. Gromyko of the Soviet Union met in the pre-revolutionary splendor of Spiridonovka Palace, a Foreign Ministry reception house a few blocks from the Kremlin, to begin detailed discussion of treaty drafts.

Controversial political issues such as whether the two Germans can ever be reunited added to the difficulty of the negotiations.

As evidence of what a West German spokesman termed "good personal atmosphere" at the initial session Monday, Gromyko showed his guests through the palace Monday night.

The Soviet Foreign Minister pointed out priceless tapestries and statuary adorning the rooms and recounted for Scheel the history of the palace, once owned by a wealthy Moscow merchant.

"Whether your problem is primitive or not, Smith Parish Roofing Company guarantees that their skilled craftsmen and the products they sell are the kind that people want. So why don't you give them a call for fast service . . . the kind you can rely on."
